LATEST NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

ONE DAY LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Prince Albert at St. Johns.

The Spanish-Mexican Question.

Cotton Buoyant—Breadstuffs and Provisions Still Dull—Consols Lower.

[By Telegraph to the New-York Times.]

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company's steamer Prince Albert arrived at this port at 10 o'clock this morning, but owing to the snow being so thick on the route between this place and Halifax, we were unable to transmit her news until this evening.

The Canada sailed from Liverpool and London advices to Saturday night, the 13th inst., which were anticipated by telegraph for the New-York Associated Press.

The news is quite unimportant.

A telegraph message from Madrid, received in London Saturday, states that Mr. Forsyth, in the Pelaez affair, acted without instructions, and that the Spanish Government has taken hold of the affair, and will, if necessary, and declares that the honor of Spain, Spaniards will unanimously be defended.

A private dispatch has been received out in Atlantic Ocean, that the Canada had passed out of Atlantic Ocean, on Saturday, the 13th inst., and reached Liverpool on the evening of the 14th.

Mr. Crampton, the British Minister, has taken hold of the Mexican question, and declares that the honor of Spain, Spaniards will unanimously be defended.

Cotton—Buoyant. Estimated sales to-day 6,000 bales.

Flour—Very dull and sales quite unimportant.

Provisions dull. Prices generally unchanged. Tallow has advanced, especially Russian, owing to heavy sales at St. Petersburg.

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 11—M.

Consols have declined, and are now at 97¼@98 for money and account.

[NOTE.—We understand that the Prince Albert met with an accident to her machinery during the voyage, which lengthened her passage.—EDS.]

FROM WASHINGTON.

The New-York Post-Office Site—Mr. Forsyth and Mexican Affairs—Cuba—Parser Hunter to be Tried by Court-Martial—Slavers Captured, &c.

[Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.]

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Postmaster-General, I understand, will not move in the matter of the New-York Post-Office until after the adjournment of Congress, hoping that the opportunity afforded by that body, and thinking it possible that the Legislature of New-York may authorize the building to be erected on the Park.

A dispatch to the Government says that Mr. Forsyth will be here in a few days—I suppose to enlighten the Administration on Mexican affairs. Great Britain and the United States agree in regarding the forced loan as only an "objectionable system of taxation," and both Governments will make representations.

I understand that the English and French Legations have received the rumor of an intention on the part of European powers to organize Cuba into an independent monarchy.

A Court-martial will convene at Boston on Monday next for the trial of Parser Hunter, of the United States Navy, on charges of intemperance and disobedience of orders.

Messrs. Buchanan and Slidell arrived here this evening, in the parlor, it is said, of Collector Schell.

[THIS last sentence was an accurate guess.]

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Nov. 24.

By advices to the 14th of October, it is ascertained that the Commander of the United States steamer Saratoga has informed the Commander of the British steamer Buzzard that the latter had captured three slavers on the African Coast, and the entire British Squadron nine, during the last six months. After making a cruise up the Coast, the officers of the Dove expected that she would return to the United States.

John Catron, of Tennessee, has been appointed a Peoria in the Navy, in place of Dallas, resigned.

Official despatches state that the violators of the Dublin Convention in Rome, had been convicted, and that an order for their execution would be asked of the Pope.

The Legislature of Kansas were required to fix upon a permanent seat of Government before any Congressional appropriation for the erection of the public buildings could be made available. The seat was fixed in 1855 at Lecompton, and the money appropriated for that purpose expended. In April last, the Legislature passed a law over the Governor's veto, changing the seat to Minneola. At the request of Governor DENVER, a decision on the subject has recently been given by Attorney-General BLACK, which is that this law is void. The seat, therefore, must be at Lecompton, at least during the existence of the Territorial Government, for the reasons above stated. The money having been thus conditionally appropriated and expended, the change would be violative of the act of Congress and a fraud on the United States.

The President has appointed THOMAS MILLER Postmaster at Columbus, Ohio, in place of SAM. MEDARY, resigned for the Governorship of Kansas. Mr. MILLER was MEDARY's immediate predecessor in a former office.

All the Government offices will be closed to-morrow, on account of its being Thanksgiving Day.

[Correspondence of the New-York Times.]

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1858.

The Administration will turns with longing eyes towards the Mexican Province of Sonora, which with the port of Guaymas, would be exceedingly valuable to the United States, and is of no value at all to any Mexican Government. But the hope of getting it by purchase grows fainter rather than more bright. As yesterday's mail brought no dispatch last evening, I was enabled to conclude that any Mexican adjustment would not cede any territory. Indeed it cannot be supposed that an Government of the republic would be willing to sell its territory. Instead it cannot be supposed that any Government in Mexico can maintain itself that proposes to cede any portion of its territory and accordingly. If Juarez, or any other man of liberal ideas, shall get into the Presidential chair, we might not wonder him to a measure which must inevitably lead to trouble him, and plunge the nation again into the vortex of anarchy. Our policy is to strengthen and not to weaken.

Nevertheless Commodore—especially in view of our rapidly developing relations with China and Japan,—in keeping of vast importance to the United States; and a railroad line through Sonora is also deemed to be very desirable. The colonization scheme referred to in my last dispatch is intended to accomplish the same end. It is believed that the United States Government grant the usual right of way; so Gen. Lane and other capitalists intend to buy lands along the line of the road, open mines, and import negroes for the purpose, which pinks and spades designed to be less potential, when the time comes than gun, bullets or bullets. It will be Texas over again. Sonora will be American land, and then declare her independence and drop very quietly into the lap of the Union. The scheme is a plausible one—and it is perfectly legal—for Gaze men will go in peace, and become Mexican citizens at once, as they can under Mexican law, and thus acquire all the citizens' rights to participate in the Government, and control it if chance enough. Certainly it has the cordial sympathy of Mr. BUCHANAN. It is said, by the way, that Major Ben McCULLOCH, after attending to some Government business in Arizona, also goes to Sonora to aid in developing the scheme thus set forth.

Can you fathom the motive for the persistent declaration that Spain is about to make war upon Mexico? I am unable to find a well-informed man here who believes it for a moment. It has been said that England and France have agreed to guarantee Spain in her possession of Cuba while she makes a demonstration against Mexico. Surely such a supposition cannot gain credence. France might be willing to enter into such an arrangement, but England, never—for it would be certain to cause the overthrow of any Ministry which should attempt it, the instant that the United States Government should assert the Monroe doctrine and demand of Great Britain to keep hands off. That the Monroe doctrine would be promptly asserted under such circumstances, unless it is to be abandoned forever, is inevitable.

But there is still another weighty reason why no such alliance may be anticipated. Everybody knows that there is in Mexico the most bitter hatred of Spain and the Spaniards, growing out, originally, of the atrocities perpetrated by the Spaniards during the war of independence, and intensified since by traditional brooding over it, and by the supercilious contempt with which Spain has ever treated her ancient provinces.

Consequently, the first gun fired by Spain against Mexico would be the signal for a simultaneous rising of the masses of the people, who would forget all of their differences in a solid union to repel the much hated invaders. In such a contest ZULOAGA and the Church Party, in whose interest the proposition for Spanish interference has been suggested, would be crushed to atoms. Even the country curates—the poor Parish priests—would head the movement against the Church and the Spanish party; for it must be borne in mind that there is no love between the regular and the secular clergy of Mexico,—the former consisting of the monks in the rich monasteries and holding the immense wealth of the Church;—while the latter are the poor officiating priests who depend upon the insignificant fees which they receive from their parishioners, and are exceedingly poor.

Private letters just received from the City of Mexico would seem to make it very uncertain whether JUAREZ will be the successful aspirant to the Presidency, even if the Liberals are successful. There are a score, at least, of military leaders fighting against ZULOAGA and the church, each of whom unquestionably expect, to set up for himself,—and the one of them who first gets possession of the capital will be likely to proclaim himself supreme ruler, &c.

At latest advices the flight of ZULOAGA and the capture of the city by the Liberal forces seemed inevitable, and we may therefore reasonably expect the news of that event at any moment. It appeared quite probable that Senator IVZARNA,—not a son of the Emperor—would take command of the Liberal forces reported at Toluca, under Gen. BLANCO. He is generally conceded to be one of the most talented, energetic and honest of his countrymen,—but unfortunately is without ambition for political position and distinction.

Mr. WORRELL, the English gentleman recently expelled from Mexico, is a man of such superior standing and high character, that his ill-treatment is likely to create a sensation in England, and impel the British Government to act with more energy and decision than heretofore towards his oppressors. Poor Mexico! If the Protectorate is not speedily established, there is reason to fear that she will soon be hardly worth saving.

Private letters just received here announce that DOUGLAS was about to start for Louisiana, ostensibly upon "private business;" but there is reason to believe that his real purpose is to make a demonstration against Mr. SLIDELL, to pay the latter off for his alleged interference against Mr. DOUGLAS in the late Illinois election. It will be remembered that SOULE has sustained DOUGLAS throughout, in his recent contest. If Mr. DOUGLAS, operating with other friends of Mr. S., should take advantage of the excitement likely to occur in Louisiana in consequence of the attempts to interrupt or embarrass the Walker Expedition, he might be able to break up Mr. SLIDELL's arrangements for the reelection of Mr. BENJAMIN.

Mr. SLIDELL undoubtedly has a strong motive for desiring the reelection of his colleague. He knows that there is a decided ill-disposition in Louisiana to longer permit the Eastern Districts of the State to hold both the Senatorships; and that if he can succeed in securing Mr. BENJAMIN's reelection, despite this feeling, the next vacancy which occurs is quite certain to be filled by some one from the western section of the State. Therefore, if Mr. BENJAMIN, a citizen of New-Orleans, fills one Senatorship, Mr. SLIDELL can resign his own seat for the long-contemplated Paris Mission, without any serious danger of having the vacancy filled by Mr. SOULE; while if BENJAMIN is defeated, and a western man elected to the vacancy, the door to the United States Senate would be left wide open for Mr. SOULE the moment that Mr. SLIDELL turns his face towards sunny France. Mr. DOUGLAS fully understands the relations of these gentlemen to each other, and knows accordingly exactly how to point his arrow so that it shall pierce Achilles' heel. S.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 23, 1858.

Apprehensions of a failure of the Paraguay Expedition are daily increasing with the Government officials here. The Expedition would not be able to land a man, but must depend entirely upon the destructive character of its heavy guns. Ample provision was made for the removal of any obstructions which might be placed in the channel of the river Paraguay, and on this point no difficulty is to be feared; but should the Expedition succeed in getting up the river, and in reaching the capital of President LOPEZ, what is gained? One of the most distinguished officers in our Navy said to-day, that all LOPEZ would have to do would be to withdraw his troops from the city, and say to the Expedition, "Batter down the town if you choose—it will be only a wanton destruction of private property, but no injury to me." As the small force of the Expedition would not dare to land, and as they would hardly be guilty of a reckless destruction of private property, the Commodore would feel as badly plagued as did the little child which failed to catch the sun-beam. The Expedition can at least "sail up the stream, and then sail down again."

Mr. Speaker ORR has adopted an admirable rule relative to the exhibition of curiosities and new inventions in the Federal Capitol. For some years the great Rotunda has been little else than a mammoth toy-shop during the sessions of Congress. Col. ORR has determined to permit nothing to be exhibited in the Rotunda this Winter except it be paintings or sculpture, and specimens of this kind must be properly and appropriately arranged.

The equestrian statue of WASHINGTON, by CLARK MILLS, is now nearly completed, and will soon be ready for delivery to the Government. It was visited yesterday by Secretary THOMPSON, who was much pleased with it, and who pronounces it a great triumph of art.

WM. B. BARKER, Esq., the great American Sculptor, whose "Coquette" commanded the admiration of European artists, and whose "Fisher Girl" has been the theme of so much praise at home, has fixed his studio permanently in this City. He will probably be employed to execute a piece for the new capitol. Mr. BARKER is a Virginian by birth, and yet quite a young man.

The members of Congress are beginning to arrive, and the City presents this evening quite a lively appearance. The WILLARDS opened their new hotel to-day. Q.

News from Mexico and the Plains.

ST. LOUIS, Wednesday, Nov. 24.

A telegraphic dispatch from Independence, Mo., says: "The Santa Fé mail, with dates to the 1st, arrived at that place on the 21st inst. Col. HAIS, the contractor for this route, and who accompanied the mail, reports the weather on the Plains to be more severe than ever experienced before at this season. There is nothing important from the Navajo country.

THE EMIGRANT VESSEL CHARTERED TO CARRY COTTON TO HAMBURG—DEPARTURE OF WALKER FROM MOBILE, ETC.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Mobile Mercury, of Monday, contains a card from Mr. WALTER SMITH, stating that he assured the crowd of emigrants, who were besieging Col. HAYNE's office on Friday, that the vessel would not be cleared, unless he was directed from Washington to give her a clearance, and that he advised HAYNE to return the passage money to the parties, who had paid for their tickets. A Committee has been appointed to arrange a settlement. The crowd has quietly dispersed. The Mercury says further, that the emigrant vessel is now chartered to carry Cotton to Hamburg. Gen. WALKER left Mobile Saturday. Judge CAMPBELL arrived there on the same day.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Mobile Register, the organ of Mr. FORSYTH, United States Minister to Mexico, says, in its issue of Saturday, that it is well known that Judge CAMPBELL, of the United States District Court for Alabama, desires to embarrass the proposed emigration from the Southern States to Nicaragua, and that the public, with instinctive judgment, has come to the conclusion that the Special Term of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Alabama is held for political purposes. The Register is particularly severe on the Judge, and accuses him of a disposition to follow the most arbitrary forms and tyrannical precedents.

The Florida at Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The steamship Florida arrived here from New-York at 9 o'clock last evening.

FROM THE PACIFIC.

FURTHER FROM CALIFORNIA, OREGON, FRASER RIVER AND THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

We have received San Francisco papers to Oct. 25, by the Overland Mail, vid St. Louis, bringing further details of news from all points on the Pacific. The dates, however, are not so late by eleven days as the arrival at New-Orleans, vid Tehuantepec. Our files contain some interesting items of intelligence.

The Alta California of Oct. 25 says:

A fire occurred on the corner of East and Merchant streets, on the 23d, which destroyed two buildings belonging to WILLIAM WICKMAN. The main edifice was occupied by Messrs. ADAMS & MARKS as a ship chandlery establishment. A man named DAVID C. HARRIS, of Baltimore, was buried to death in the building in which the fire originated.

Since the departure of the Overland Mail of the 23d, the storm which was then raging, has been followed by another, which commenced at sundown on the evening of the 23d, and continued through the greater part of the night. During no previous year since the discovery of gold has so much rain fallen in the month of October.

CHARLES CARVALLO, Chinese interpreter, and two Chinamen, named Dr. LIFUN and AH TUNG, were arrested on the 21st, on a charge of having forcibly seduced the bride of a countryman of the latter, named AH YOUNG. The former was honorably acquitted, and the case continued as to the latter. A suit for perjury has already been commenced against the complainants, it being alleged that they instituted the prosecution for abduction through malicious motives.

The Jenny Lind flume in Calaveras County has been blown down.

A party of eight immigrants (five men and three women) has arrived from the plains of Los Angeles.

Another mail party arrived in Calaveras County by the Carson Valley road.

It is reported that rich gold mines have been found on the Gila.

The favorable news from Fraser River is confirmed. Our dates from Victoria are to Oct. 22. The Victoria Gazette has the following items:—

The Steamer Enterprise arrived at Victoria on the 12th of October, from Fraser River. She brought down 160 passengers and a large amount of gold dust. A rich find has been struck a little below Fort Yale, which was paying exceedingly well, and attracting a great deal of attention. A gentleman just down from Fort Yale, estimates the number of miners on the river at between 8,000 and 10,000, and thinks the present rush for San Francisco about subsiding.

The Pioneer Express alone brought down 600 ounces in gold dust, and there were several large parcels in the hands of passengers. The news, with the exception of the cold weather, is decidedly cheering. The mines are turning out much better than was anticipated a month ago; reported discoveries of rich diggings of coarse gold on Thompson River had reached Fort Yale, and the miners were starting for the new diggings. Bank or flat diggings have lately been found in several places, where it is supposed the river once coursed.

Mr. McLEAN and party had arrived at Deer Mountain, from Thompson River. He reports that there is forty miles of snow from the Shiwhimme River in toward the Fraser, and still snowing. The snow lies on the ground from ten to fifteen inches in depth. There is a great scarcity of provisions throughout the upper mining districts.

We hear a report that forty head of mules have been found, frozen to death, on the route to the Forks, and it is supposed that they belonged to McLEAN's party.

The owners of the steamers Enterprise and Maria have put up the price of freight from Victoria to Fort Hope, from $40 to $60 per ton—or three cents a pound. This is an exorbitant charge, and if persisted in, must seriously affect not only the working of the mines, but greatly retard the prosperity of this town. What with the ten per cent. duty on Fraser River, and now this embargo on trade, it seems as if the hard-fisted miners are to be starved out of the country. At this rate, it will take all a miner can reasonably hope to make to buy food and raiment sufficient to keep body and soul together.

The following notice appeared in the Gazette of Oct. 19:

Notice is hereby given that from and after this date, the navigation of the waters from Fraser River, British Columbia, is open to all British vessels, on obtaining a clearance from the Custom-house at Victoria, Vancouver Island. By order of his Excellency, the Governor. CHAS. A. ANGELO, Dep. Col.

The shipments of gold from Victoria since Aug. 4, has been $92,377.

OREGON AND THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

The news from Oregon is unimportant. The troops of Colonel WRIGHT's column have returned to Fort Walla Walla, and the Artillery Battalion under command of Captain KEYES, is already in march on this post, en route for Fort Vancouver, where three companies will remain for the present; the other three companies will, possibly, be sent to California—that is, if orders are issued directing such a movement.

After the troops had passed Snake River, on the morning of Oct. 2, the Yakima chief, OUM, father of QUALCHIEN, having attempted to escape was mortally wounded.

The remains of Captain TAYLOR and Lieutenant GARNER have been buried at Walla Walla with military honors.

The expedition has thus returned after so signally brilliant a campaign, with the loss of but two men—accidentally poisoned—and one dragoon horse and about thirty-five mules.

In the Sandwich Islands an interesting question has come up. The Hawaiian Government has taken possession of Cornwallis Island, and it is claimed that the act is a trespass on American territory. The story is told as follows by the Honolulu Commercial Advertiser of Sept. 30:

"Some time in February last, the American schooner Palestine left this port and sailed for a guano island to the southwest of this group, which she reached in March, took possession of the principal island, which they called Johnson Island, erected a staff with the name of the President of the United States on it, returning to San Francisco with a quantity of guano. Early in June the Hawaiian schooner Kalama sailed in search of what subsequently proved to be the same island, and they were taken possession of in the name of the Hawaiian Government. In July the schooner Palestine was again sent from San Francisco to the same islands she had before visited, and found the staffs which had been left on her first voyage destroyed or mutilated, and the Hawaiian flag flying, and by observations fixed the latitude and longitude as near as of fixed obtained by the Hawaiian Government.

[illegible] Kalama, [illegible] Honolulu, reports the saving of twelve seamen on the 16th inst. from a cast-away vessel sixty days out from Port Spain. The name of the vessel is not given.

In the Sandwich Islands an interesting question has come up. The Hawaiian Government has taken possession of Cornwallis Island, and it is claimed that the act is a trespass on American territory. The story is told as follows by the Honolulu Commercial Advertiser of Sept. 30:

"Some time in February last, the American schooner Palestine left this port and sailed for a guano island to the southwest of this group, which she reached in March, took possession of the principal island, which they called Johnson Island, erected a staff with the name of the President of the United States on it, returning to San Francisco with a quantity of guano. Early in June the Hawaiian schooner Kalama sailed in search of what subsequently proved to be the same island, and they were taken possession of in the name of the Hawaiian Government. In July the schooner Palestine was again sent from San Francisco to the same islands she had before visited, and found the staffs which had been left on her first voyage destroyed or mutilated, and the Hawaiian flag flying, and by observations fixed the latitude and longitude as near as of fixed obtained by the Hawaiian Government.

The Walker Emigrants.

THE EMIGRANT VESSEL CHARTERED TO CARRY COTTON TO HAMBURG—DEPARTURE OF WALKER FROM MOBILE, ETC.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Mobile Mercury, of Monday, contains a card from Mr. WALTER SMITH, stating that he assured the crowd of emigrants, who were besieging Col. HAYNE's office on Friday, that the vessel would not be cleared, unless he was directed from Washington to give her a clearance, and that he advised HAYNE to return the passage money to the parties, who had paid for their tickets. A Committee has been appointed to arrange a settlement. The crowd has quietly dispersed. The Mercury says further, that the emigrant vessel is now chartered to carry Cotton to Hamburg. Gen. WALKER left Mobile Saturday. Judge CAMPBELL arrived there on the same day.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The Mobile Register, the organ of Mr. FORSYTH, United States Minister to Mexico, says, in its issue of Saturday, that it is well known that Judge CAMPBELL, of the United States District Court for Alabama, desires to embarrass the proposed emigration from the Southern States to Nicaragua, and that the public, with instinctive judgment, has come to the conclusion that the Special Term of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Alabama is held for political purposes. The Register is particularly severe on the Judge, and accuses him of a disposition to follow the most arbitrary forms and tyrannical precedents.

FROM THE PACIFIC.

FURTHER FROM CALIFORNIA, OREGON, FRASER RIVER AND THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

We have received San Francisco papers to Oct. 25, by the Overland Mail, vid St. Louis, bringing further details of news from all points on the Pacific. The dates, however, are not so late by eleven days as the arrival at New-Orleans, vid Tehuantepec. Our files contain some interesting items of intelligence.

The Alta California of Oct. 25 says:

A fire occurred on the corner of East and Merchant streets, on the 23d, which destroyed two buildings belonging to WILLIAM WICKMAN. The main edifice was occupied by Messrs. ADAMS & MARKS as a ship chandlery establishment. A man named DAVID C. HARRIS, of Baltimore, was buried to death in the building in which the fire originated.

Since the departure of the Overland Mail of the 23d, the storm which was then raging, has been followed by another, which commenced at sundown on the evening of the 23d, and continued through the greater part of the night. During no previous year since the discovery of gold has so much rain fallen in the month of October.

CHARLES CARVALLO, Chinese interpreter, and two Chinamen, named Dr. LIFUN and AH TUNG, were arrested on the 21st, on a charge of having forcibly seduced the bride of a countryman of the latter, named AH YOUNG. The former was honorably acquitted, and the case continued as to the latter. A suit for perjury has already been commenced against the complainants, it being alleged that they instituted the prosecution for abduction through malicious motives.

The Jenny Lind flume in Calaveras County has been blown down.

A party of eight immigrants (five men and three women) has arrived from the plains of Los Angeles.

Another mail party arrived in Calaveras County by the Carson Valley road.

It is reported that rich gold mines have been found on the Gila.

The favorable news from Fraser River is confirmed. Our dates from Victoria are to Oct. 22. The Victoria Gazette has the following items:—

The Steamer Enterprise arrived at Victoria on the 12th of October, from Fraser River. She brought down 160 passengers and a large amount of gold dust. A rich find has been struck a little below Fort Yale, which was paying exceedingly well, and attracting a great deal of attention. A gentleman just down from Fort Yale, estimates the number of miners on the river at between 8,000 and 10,000, and thinks the present rush for San Francisco about subsiding.

The Pioneer Express alone brought down 600 ounces in gold dust, and there were several large parcels in the hands of passengers. The news, with the exception of the cold weather, is decidedly cheering. The mines are turning out much better than was anticipated a month ago; reported discoveries of rich diggings of coarse gold on Thompson River had reached Fort Yale, and the miners were starting for the new diggings. Bank or flat diggings have lately been found in several places, where it is supposed the river once coursed.

Mr. McLEAN and party had arrived at Deer Mountain, from Thompson River. He reports that there is forty miles of snow from the Shiwhimme River in toward the Fraser, and still snowing. The snow lies on the ground from ten to fifteen inches in depth. There is a great scarcity of provisions throughout the upper mining districts.

We hear a report that forty head of mules have been found, frozen to death, on the route to the Forks, and it is supposed that they belonged to McLEAN's party.

The owners of the steamers Enterprise and Maria have put up the price of freight from Victoria to Fort Hope, from $40 to $60 per ton—or three cents a pound. This is an exorbitant charge, and if persisted in, must seriously affect not only the working of the mines, but greatly retard the prosperity of this town. What with the ten per cent. duty on Fraser River, and now this embargo on trade, it seems as if the hard-fisted miners are to be starved out of the country. At this rate, it will take all a miner can reasonably hope to make to buy food and raiment sufficient to keep body and soul together.

The following notice appeared in the Gazette of Oct. 19:

Notice is hereby given that from and after this date, the navigation of the waters from Fraser River, British Columbia, is open to all British vessels, on obtaining a clearance from the Custom-house at Victoria, Vancouver Island. By order of his Excellency, the Governor. CHAS. A. ANGELO, Dep. Col.

The shipments of gold from Victoria since Aug. 4, has been $92,377.

OREGON AND THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.

The news from Oregon is unimportant. The troops of Colonel WRIGHT's column have returned to Fort Walla Walla, and the Artillery Battalion under command of Captain KEYES, is already in march on this post, en route for Fort Vancouver, where three companies will remain for the present; the other three companies will, possibly, be sent to California—that is, if orders are issued directing such a movement.

After the troops had passed Snake River, on the morning of Oct. 2, the Yakima chief, OUM, father of QUALCHIEN, having attempted to escape was mortally wounded.

The remains of Captain TAYLOR and Lieutenant GARNER have been buried at Walla Walla with military honors.

The expedition has thus returned after so signally brilliant a campaign, with the loss of but two men—accidentally poisoned—and one dragoon horse and about thirty-five mules.

In the Sandwich Islands an interesting question has come up. The Hawaiian Government has taken possession of Cornwallis Island, and it is claimed that the act is a trespass on American territory. The story is told as follows by the Honolulu Commercial Advertiser of Sept. 30:

SUPERIOR COURT—Nov. 24.

Before Judge Pierrepont.

Margaret S. McNair vs. The Mayor, &c.—In this case the jury brought in a sealed verdict of $67 for the plaintiff. It is the case reported in yesterday's Times, in which damages were claimed on account of injury to the contents of a trunk submerged in the North River, by the giving way of a plank in pier No. 43.

Gardiner vs. The Mayor, &c.—This case was precisely like the former. The plaintiff and trunk only being changed. The witnesses were mainly the same. There was some variance in the testimony of one witness sworn on both trials. In the former he was understood to testify that the plank which broke under the wheel of the coach was covered with dirt so that its condition could not be seen; in the present case he said there was no dirt upon it, and that its surface gave no indication of its rotten condition. The Judge held that no proof was made of negligence against the Corporation, and nonsuited the plaintiff.

James London vs. Charles C. March.—This action is brought against the defendant as Administrator of his brother, Benjamin F. March, deceased. The plaintiff claims for services rendered to Benj. F. March, as a nurse, from 1852 up to the time of his death in 1856. It appeared that March suffered from a variety of diseases, prominent among which was delirium tremens; that he was very hard to take care of, requiring both male and female nurses, and often several at once; that the task of nursing him was not only laborious but offensive, owing to his bodily condition; that the plaintiff was assiduous and competent in her attendance, by March's request, and that he had never paid her anything, though he had repeatedly expressed an intention to leave her by will $10,000, or a farm, or both, as a compensation. He died, however, intestate, and, as before stated, this suit is brought to recover the plaintiff's wages from the administrator. The case excites considerable interest in Court. Several physicians and professional nurses were examined as to the state of E. F. March during the time covered by the complaint, and as to the rate of compensation which would be proper under the circumstances. The defence intimated a design to show that the plaintiff entertained exorbitant views, by reason of the belief that March was rich.

The trial is still on. Mr. Busteed for plaintiff; Mr. Gerard for defendant.

Before Justice Hoffman and a Jury.

INSURANCE.

John S. de Wolf et al., vs. The Virginia Fire and Marine Insurance Company.—The defendants, in 1856, insured for the plaintiffs a ship called the Helen, on a voyage from Cardiff, in Wales, to Savannah and back. On her return, laden with a cargo of cotton of the value of $100,000, when within 500 miles of Liverpool, she was abandoned by the master and crew, who were taken to Liverpool on the bark Idas. A protest was made out, reciting that the Helen had experienced severe weather; that her rudder had been carried away, her deck cargo thrown overboard; that one of her pumps had been broken; that her sternpost was loosened, and that when abandoned she had five feet of water in the hold.

The Helen was fallen in with on the day after her abandonment by the ship Westmoreland, bound to Philadelphia, and a report by them published in the Philadelphia papers which excited suspicions of foul play. She was boarded by the master and mate and some of the crew of the Westmoreland, whose testimony was produced on the trial.

They testified that they found that four of her lanyards had been cut, as if with an axe, for the purpose of sinking her; that there was but sixteen inches of water in her hold; that both pumps were in good order, and that everything about her was in good order, with the exception of the loss of the rudder, and that she could have been easily taken into port. It was insisted that she was grossly overvalued, and that the abandonment was unnecessary and fraudulent.

The officers of the Westmoreland testified that they found on deck a portion of the old rudder, and that it was worm-eaten, so as to be wholly worthless, and the defendants insisted that the Helen was unseaworthy when the policy was effected.

The plaintiffs produced the testimony of the master and mate, and others, confirming the statements contained in the protest.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiffs for $4,685.

Mr. Stanley for plaintiff; Mr. Moultrie and Mr. Sloughton for defendants.

M. POCCIANTI, of Florence, the oldest and one of the most eminent architects of Italy, has recently died. He was superintending the gymnastic exercises of the firemen, of which corps he was director, when a ladder broke, and a man who was on it fell on him, injuring him so much that he died the next day. M. POCCIANTI was 60 years of age.

REMARKS ON THE BEEF MARKET.

There never was, in our recollection, a good market for cattle on the week following Thanksgiving—we doubt if there ever was a poorer one than that held at Forty-fourth-street to-day. And no wonder. What do we want of the 4,298 beeves brought to the City this week—a majority of them poor eating—when there is and has been any amount of good fat turkeys offered all over the City at 10c. @12c. ℔ lb., and from that all the way down to 4c. for medium qualities, and for those which have been killed long enough to be tender, and which, though not at all spoiled, have yet been kept long enough to make the holders think it about time to "shove them off at some rate." Prices were not so much lower to-day than they have been—and that is not saying much for they were thought to have reached the lowest possible point weeks ago—but the fact is, there were few buyers at any price. Last week the butchers of this City, with a little outside aid, took over 5,000 cattle, and it was a decided "take in" for not a few of them are on hand yet, and are likely to be, in the present condition of the poultry market. We said there were almost no buyers; there were a few, some who wanted an animal or two, and more who visited Forty-fourth-street from force of habit, knowing, and the more benevolent among them were consulted into holding out the owners of cattle. Many of them, however, responded to the earnest appeals and sympathy views of the salesmen with the reply, "Well, we should like to good you a bid, but really we are about as badly 'stuck' as yourselves. Our stalls are full of beef as they can be, and no buyers." A few country purchasers came in, but with 2,500 cattle in the yards, for the salesmen it was up-hill work to begin with, and the hill grew steeper every hour. Several droves were taken to the country by dealers who have pastures and stall room, and we could hardly guess at the number unsold at night—probably not less than 500 head.... Perhaps a dozen of the choicest animals brought 9½c., while others about as good hardly reached 9c., and side steers were abundant at 8c. In the after part of the day bullocks that would make very passable beef, were freely offered at 8½c. @7c., while the scalawags would hardly sell for freight and yard fees. The general run of the cattle was poor—just the kind most unfit to compete with poultry.... Quite a number of the brokers, stimulated by the unusual condition of the market last week, to which we referred in our report, were foolish enough to buy up at Albany, and elsewhere, several droves on the way. What they sold of them to-day were below the first cost, to say nothing of freight, yardage, and other expenses.... Such is our report of the Cattle Market for Nov. 24, 1858, the like of which has not been known in many a day. At Albany the transactions have been pretty brisk, mostly for New-York, as only about 400 went to eastern markets.

L. BURLOWE, for BURLOWE & GERARD, 54 Michigan Cattle, ranging from rather common to good. The best brought 9c., and so down to 7c. Also, 18 pretty good State Cattle, for S. BURLOWE, at 8¾c.

W. W. HOAG, for neighbors, 14 prime heavy Dutchess County Cattle, 6 of them for 9¾c. ℔ to be weighed. The balance brought 7c. @8½c.

T. WHEELER, for S. B. RICHARDSON, 65 good Kentucky Cattle, of 8¾ cwt., at 8½c. @9c. and 9½c. for a few of the top. Mr. WHEELER also bought 56 tidy Steers at $48 ℔ head, or 7c., for country feeding.

C. G. TEED, for E. W. GWYNNE, 58 prime Ohio Cattle, 20 of them at 9c. @9¾c. on 9 cwt., and the balance at 8c. @8c. They were A No. 1.

RICHARDSON & UTTERBACK 41 of their own Kentucky cattle, of medium quality, at 8c. @8½c. Rated 7 cwt.

T. C. EASTMAN, for EMERSON, BLACK & Co., 63 rather young, but good, fleshed Ohio steers at 8c. @8½c. except 25 of the choice which brought 9c. Also, 68 State cattle bought by Mr. EMERSON at Albany. They were common cattle and sold at 6½c. @7c.

G. SAUR, for J. COOX, 54 common Indiana cows and steers, at 5c. @7c., and 16 rather coarse Ohio stags and oxen, for W. L. DENNING, at 7c.

S. ULRAY, 63 of his own Kentucky cattle, of pretty good flesh, at 8½c. @9c.

HARDING & GURNEY sold for JAMES SPENCER, 54 light medium Indiana Cattle, at 5c. @7c., and 69 Indiana Steers for HANNAH & DURHAM, at 5c. @8c.

H. MYERS sold for J. MATHER 78 common Indiana Steers, at 7c. Estimated weight 6¾ cwt.

VAIL & Co. were trying to save themselves on 83 Ohio and State cattle, which they had previously bought. Rather than sacrifice much they were holding on to them, and there was a prospect of their lasting through two markets. Those sold brought 8c. @8¼c.

J. H. WILLIAMS bought 89 medium Illinois cattle at Albany for 6½c., and was selling to-day at 7c. @8½c., making his commission the wrong way.

MILCH COWS WITH CALVES.

The Cow market is decidedly dull just now. Although the receipts for the past week have not been large, yet the market is overstocked. Good Cows are worth more in the country than they are now bringing here.

ALLERTON reports receipts of 21 fresh Cows, selling at $35@$50 for ordinary, and $35@$45 for good, with a very few at $50@$60. Few Cows in market, and very little inquiry after them at present.

BROWNING reports receipts of 1 Milch Cow. The demand is light and prices unchanged.

CHAMBERLIN reports receipts of 62 Milch Cows, selling at $35@$50 for common; $40@$50 for good, and $55@$60 for extra.

O'BRIEN reports receipts of 116 Milch Cows, selling at $30@$35 for common; $40@$50 for good; with a few extra animals at $55@$60. Market overstocked and sales very slow.

VEAL CALVES.

The Calf trade scarcely differs from last week. Good Veals sell readily at 6½c., and a few choice ones at 7c. "Bobs" are plenty, and sell slowly, (we should be glad to see no sale,) at $1 25@$1 50 each.

ALLERTON reports receipts of 300 Veal Calves, selling at 4c. @7c. for good ones, with plenty of "bobs" at $1 25 ℔ head. Market no more than supplied with good Calves, which sell readily.

BROWNING reports receipts of 30 Veal Calves, selling generally at 4c. @7c. ℔ lb. No variation from last week, except slow sales.

CHAMBERLIN reports receipts of 119 Veal Calves, selling at 5c. @6½c.

O'BRIEN reports receipts of 94 Veal Calves, selling at 5c. @6½c., and a very few of the choice at 7¼c. Demand good, and trade lively at former quotations.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

Receipts have been very large, footing up 14,392 for the past week, which is the greatest number since the middle of October. Besides the live stock, large numbers of dressed carcasses are coming from Albany and go direct to the markets. Mutton has been as low as 3c. @4c. ℔ lb. in Washington Market. Live stock is dull, at 3½c. @4c. ℔ lb., gross weight, or 50c. @75c. ℔ head less than last week. Sheep are worth more in the country than here just now. Large numbers remain unsold.

ALLERTON reports receipts of 1,200 Sheep and Lambs. Sheep are selling at 3½c. @4c. ℔ lb., gross. Lambs are worth 4c. @4½c. Very fat, large Sheep bring 4½c. and the finest Lambs 5c. Supply much larger than wanted, and sales extremely dull at near 75c. ℔ head less than last Wednesday.

BROWNING reports receipts of 4,788 Sheep and Lambs, selling generally at 3½c. @4c. for Sheep, and 4c. @4½c., gross, for Lambs. A few of the best Sheep bring 4¾c. Market overstocked. Sales slow at 50c. @75c. ℔ head less than last week.

CHAMBERLIN reports receipts of 5,327 Sheep and Lambs, selling at $2 00@$3 50 for common, and $4@$7 50 for a few prime Sheep.

O'BRIEN reports receipts of 2,017 Sheep and Lambs. Sales by MCGRAW & O'BRIEN were as follows:

Reported exclusively for the New-York Times.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, Nov. 24, 1858.

The prices given in our report from week to week are the average wholesale prices obtained by producers, and not those at which produce is retailed from the market. The variations in prices refer chiefly to the qualities of the articles.

The Poultry trade of the past week has been very large, overshadowing vegetable and other transactions. One of the very many firms who have suddenly turned Poultry dealers, foot up their daily transactions for a week past at $300@$1,000. So abundant has been the supply of all kinds of Poultry, and especially Turkeys, that Beef has been quite distanced in low prices, and the masses have taken to eating Poultry as a matter of economy. Even with all the trade, large quantities of the Thanksgiving Turkeys are still on hand—poor, of course,—at 3c. @7c. ℔ lb., while good ones are plenty at 7c. @9c. A few of those recently dressed, from Jersey and other neighboring localities, are bringing 10c. @12c. Geese sell at equally low prices, and Ducks are extremely dull at nameless rates.

The enormous glut of Poultry is probably owing to the fact that they are soon fatted and prepared for the market, and quick returns, at fair prices, have usually been made. It will be better to hold on to the balance in the country for a while—it is being send up too fast, and will be better appreciated a few weeks hence.

The Potato trade is rather quiet. Nova Scotias continue to arrive, and are put out at 45c. @55c. ℔ bushel. Home-grown varieties are a little firmer. Sweet Potatoes are still abundant and cheap.

Onions have advanced in price, owing to lighter receipts and a recent demand.

Cabbages are as plenty as ever—rather overcrowding the market.

Apples are unchanged, with a moderate demand. A few dealers are receiving them from Boston.

Chestnuts are scarce, and hickory nuts not plenty. Butter, of fine quality, is scarce and higher. Eggs, &c. for prime Orange County.

Eggs are more plentiful, and a little lower.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The steamship Prince Albert, from Galway on the afternoon of the 11th inst., arrived at St. Johns, N. F., yesterday morning—having, as we understand, been detained on her passage by an accident to her machinery. Her advices are to noon of the day of sailing—one day later than received by the City of Baltimore. Cotton is reported steady, and Breadstuffs and Provisions very dull. Consols had declined. A dispatch from Madrid, received in London on the 11th, states that the Spanish Government has taken current part of the Mexican question, with a determination to settle the difficulty conformably to the dignity of Spain. Hostilities were consequently anticipated. An insurrection is said to have broken out in Asiatic Turkey, but no particulars are given. Mr. Wansbrough, former electrician of the Atlantic Telegraph, is still sanguine that the present cable may be made to work, and has so expressed himself in another letter to the Directors.

Our files of California papers, to Oct. 25, received by the Overland Mail via St. Louis, though not so late as the news via Tehuantepec contained in our telegraph yesterday, have sundry interesting items of intelligence. Heavy rains had fallen in California, and there were reports of the discovery of rich gold mines on the Gila. The news from Fraser's River is better, our last accounts of more promising yields being confirmed. From Oregon, we learn of the arrival of Col. Wright's column on the way to Fort Vancouver. From the Sandwich Islands there is a report that the Hawaiian Government had seized Carysville Island, which is claimed to be American territory, and the case was to be laid before the United States Commissioner. The wreck of an unknown whaler, supposed to be the Indian Chief, had been discovered on the southeast extremity of Gore's Island by the crew of the Fleet Swift. We publish the Captain's report.

Later advices have been received from New-Mexico, but there is nothing important from the Navajo country. There had been some slight skirmishing, however, between the United States troops and the Indians at Fort Defiance, and Lieut. Averett had been wounded. A gentleman who had arrived at Santa Fé, reports that he had traveled up the South Platte a distance of seventy-five miles, and had found gold diggings all the way, as well as on every stream between the South Platte and the Medicine Bow Creek. The weather on the Platte is reported to be very severe.

Attorney-General Black has recently given a decision in reference to the removal of the Capital of Kansas. The seat of Government was fixed in 1855 at Lecompton, in accordance with a law which required it to be permanently located before any appropriation by Congress for public buildings could be made available, and the buildings were erected there. In April last, however, the Legislature passed a law changing the seat of Government to Minneola. The Attorney-General decides that this law is void, and that Lecompton must remain the capital during the existence of the Territorial Government.

It is understood to be the intention of the Postmaster-General not to move in the matter of the selection of a site for the Post-Office in this City until the assembling of the coming session of Congress, the postponement being instigated by the hope that in the meantime the appropriation may be increased, and that the State Legislature may be induced to authorize the erection of the building on the Park.

Mr. Walker Smith, the Collector of the Port of Mobile, published a card on Monday in the Mercury of that city, in which he states that he had given encouragement to the crowd of Walker "emigrants" besieging the office of the agents from whom they had procured tickets, that the vessel would not be cleared unless special directions to that effect were received from Washington, and a Committee was accordingly appointed to arrange a settlement, and the crowd quietly dispersed. The Mercury also states that the vessel in which the "emigrants" were to have sailed had been chartered to carry cotton to Hamburg, and that Gen. Walker had left Mobile on the preceding Saturday.

A telegraphic dispatch announces the death of the Hon. T. L. Harris, of Illinois, member of Congress from the Sixth District. His disease was consumption, from which he had been suffering for a considerable period, and his death was not unexpected.

Henry Gaskill, convicted in Baltimore some days since of the murder of Police Officer Barron, was on Tuesday sentenced to be executed at such time as may be appointed by the Governor, in accordance with the Maryland law. This is the case, it will be remembered, out of which grew the murder of Police Officer Hands.

Mayor Tiemann and the Hon. G. C. Verplanck were appointed a Committee, by the Commissioners of Emigration at their meeting yesterday, to take such legal measures as they may deem necessary and expedient against individuals as well as against Richmond County, for the destruction of the Quarantine buildings last Sunday.

The Anti-Tammany Democrats met last night in Mozart Hall, to ratify the nominations of Stephen P. Rossiter for Comptroller, and of James Lynch for Alderman-Governor. It was not a very large meeting, nor neither in the character nor otherwise, presented any feature of peculiar note.

The preliminary examination which has been in progress for some time before Justice Wilson upon the murder charge against Cornelius Mountain, growing out of the affrays of the latter, accusing Robert Wilkins with having murdered a man at his gambling house in Broadway, was brought to a close yesterday. The magistrate held the accused to bail to answer the charge before the Grand Jury.

John Bryan, one of the members of the Hibernia Engine Company of Philadelphia, was stabbed, about 8 o'clock yesterday, in Broadway—fortunately not fatally. Bryan and several acquaintances were walking up Broadway, when they were assaulted by a gang of rowdies. The assailants made their escape.

An aged and decrepit man, named Edward Moore, perished from suffocation at a fire yesterday morning in a tenement house, at the corner of Washington and Leight sts. He had gone to bed intoxicated, and was too much fatigued when the fire occurred to save himself from his perilous position.

Further proceedings in the trial of the City officials, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, were yesterday postponed to the 1st of December.

The sales of Cotton, yesterday, amounted to [illegible]

[illegible] Flour and Corn were [illegible] prices. Wheat, Barley and Rye were steady and firm. Provisions were in good request at [illegible] prices. Groceries, Hides, Oils, and Freights continued quiet.

The Cattle Market, yesterday, was decidedly flat. During a week past it has been good turkey meet versus poor beef—both superabundant, and beef has come out second-best, decidedly. Last week over 5,000 cattle were taken by the butchers, but poultry of all kinds has been superabundantly abundant, of fair quality, and at unusually low prices, so that the demand for beef has been next to nothing. As a consequence, the 4,300 cattle brought in since last Wednesday were nearly superfluous. The sales at Forty-fourth-street yesterday were made at prices fully ½c. ⅌ lb. below the low rates of last week, for the choicest animals, and from that down to almost no price at all. Large numbers were either taken out to the country or left over in the yards. Good turkeys are abundant, at 10c. ⅌ lb., and from that down to 5c. ⅌ lb. for those of less desirable quality in freshness.

What Shall We Do in Mexico?

If Mr. Buchanan could be supposed capable of so far forgetting the traditions of his long life as ever to do the right thing at the right time, we might confidently anticipate a definite solution of the Mexican question from his forthcoming Presidential message. For the moment has clearly arrived if not for an advance of the American forces into Mexico, at least for the appearance of an American fleet in the Mexican waters with orders to take the initiative in compelling reparation from the Mexican Government for the wrongs which have for the last two years been inflicted upon foreigners of all nations in that unhappy country; and in exacting such guaranties of order in the future as shall impose peace upon its contending factions, and restore prosperity to its ruined industries. The harmony which now reigns between the Governments of England, France and the United States in regard to Central American affairs leaves the President at liberty to bestow his undivided attention upon the far more pressing interests involved in our relations with Mexico, whose northern frontier is coterminous with our own from the Caribbean Sea to the Pacific, and whose territories, were they tranquillized beneath the double sway of liberty and law, would afford us the swiftest and surest means of transit from our Eastern to our Western dominions.

It is a curious illustration of the ease with which mankind may be driven in flocks, that almost all projects for abbreviating the passage from Europe and the United States to California and the Pacific coasts of America should, up to this time, have been based upon the Isthmian countries of the Continent. We are but just now rejoicing, after more than ten years possession of our magnificent Pacific empire, in the opening of an Overland route from St. Louis to San Francisco; and whatever attempts we have heretofore made at inducing Mexico to enter into the commercial community of nations, and to avail herself of her splendid national advantages of position and of climate, have been confined to a protracted and most paltry squabble over the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. In all this there is something rather humiliating to our national pride in precisely those qualities of sagacity and of enterprise upon which we are accustomed most vauntingly to plume ourselves. But there are sundry indications now observable at Washington and elsewhere, of a change for the better in these matters. Masters of Texas, New-Mexico and California, we are not, it would seem, to acquiesce forever in the virtual severance of our Caribbean from our Pacific coasts by the supineness of the Mexican authorities and the unchecked ferocity of the chartered savages over whom they profess to hold sway in the States of Chihuahua and Sonora. Throughout the vast unsettled regions which stretch along our western and southwestern borders, it is evident that a struggle is at hand between ourselves and the various Indian tribes, to whom, since the successful revolt of New-Spain from the royal authority, the practical sovereignty of those regions has reverted; and the authority of the American Government is already felt to be quite another thing from the feeble rule of the Mexican Republic.

We cannot decline this struggle, odious and costly as it must inevitably be; and if Mr. Buchanan wishes to signalize the two remaining years of his term by something worth achieving, he has only to devote himself to reading such a lesson to the Camanches, Apaches, Hioways, and other devastating hordes, whose range is marked for hundreds of leagues only by rapine and ruin, as neither they nor their remotest posterity will be able ever to forget.

Simultaneously with the performance of this duty, the President must attempt the task, not less grave, of building up a rampart of civilization along this same frontier of Northern Mexico. And of this task he will find the first installment done to his hand whenever the port of Guayamas, on the Gulf of California, shall be brought into communication with the Gulf of Mexico. From this point by Chihuahua runs the natural line of communication through New-Mexico and Texas, from San Francisco to New-Orleans and the Mexican Gulf. Of the trade which in the old viceregal days flowed along this channel, the city of Chihuahua remains a silent but impressive witness. The grand warehouses of its Plaza Mayor; the admirable aqueduct which supplies its diminished population; the general air of departed grandeur which marks the place, all illustrate the wisdom of the early conquerors who made it the dépôt of the most profitable intercourse between the two shores of Mexico. No such memorials adorn the precincts of Guayamas, whose importance has been long and strangely overlooked.

In the development, which nothing can seriously interrupt, of the Pacific trade of Mexico with Asia and the Polynesian world, Guayamas is destined to play a great part. The route of vessels sailing from India, Manila or China to the North American Continent, obliges them to pass far to the north of the Isthmus of Panama, in order to avoid the easterly trade-winds, and fall into the variable westerly winds which prevail above the northern tropic. Not Panama alone, but San Blas and Acapulco come within the scope of this necessity; and the ships of the Philippine Company, in the old times, used to stop at Monterey, in California, for orders and for fresh provisions, on their way to Acapulco and the South. Were a safe transit insured across the territory of Mexico, Guayamas would become the centre of the passenger traffic from the farther East, as well as of the coast trade of California. It lies upon the western shore of the Gulf of California, in latitude 27° 40', or about two degrees south of New-Orleans. Its harbor is by far the best upon the western coasts of Mexico, being perfectly sheltered on the one side by fine hills, and on the other by the Isla de Los Pajaros, from all winds, and affording abundant space for the anchorage of two hundred large vessels. From Guayamas southward along the Mexican coast the navigation is made difficult by many shoals; but along the coast of California the water is deep in-shore, and the voyage to and from San Fran- [illegible] Good timber may be had from miles of every kind, whether intended for constructing a transcontinental connection between the seaboard on the Pacific and an overland mail to the East does not exist.

Nor is there a single impediment on the way from Guayamas to the Texas frontier which may not be very easily and very quickly removed by any Government worthy of the name. To seize and hold such a port as this, and to make the establishment of a respectable Government in Mexico the condition of surrendering it again to the Mexican authorities, would be a proceeding perfectly justified by the law of nations as well as by the necessities of our national position. Our citizens have received nothing but injury at the hands of the Mexican Government during the whole theatrical struggle of which the fifth or sixth act is now passing before our eyes. We have looked on idly upon this business quite long enough. To interfere at once and with the strong hand to procure the security of justice to our citizens, is the simple duty of our rulers. Nor could they in any way so thoroughly conciliate their purely diplomatic duty of the moment with this duty as guardians of the enduring destinies of the nation, as by planting our flag in a spot from which it may teach the Mexicans not merely what they are to us, but also what they are to themselves. Our interference upon the Gulf of Mexico would be a mere demonstration. Our interference upon the Western coast would point to the solid necessities of a commerce which will not be turned aside forever from its natural courses, and which will bless Mexico not less than ourselves in flowing freely through her else abandoned realms.

Nor is it easy to say what Power would be justified in protesting, be it never so mildly, against such a step on our part. Great Britain certainly cannot quarrel with us for endeavoring to foster the trade of the world, at the same time that we vindicate the right of our own citizens and the outraged honor of our flag. France has no interests in the question which our action could possibly prejudice, nor could Spain advance any valid objection to our doing what she has been threatening for months to attempt. Some of the Provincial journals of England, we observe, are beginning to consider the question of American preponderance in Mexico from the point of view of its probable effects upon the manufacturing industry of England. They shrink, it would appear, from exposing the export trade of England with Spanish America to the restrictive influences of a possible tariff such as now encumbers her commerce with the United States. But this terror of the Manchesterians seems to us like the political zeal of their Bonnerges, Mr. Bright, to be a little "without knowledge." Let the restrictions of our tariff be never so severe, they should remember that at this moment the single item of the imports of silk into these United States exceeds in value the entire trade with all Europe and America of the Mexican Republic, and they should console themselves for the prospect of a reign of American influence in Mexico by the reflection that, wherever that influence has yet been felt there, whatever life was in the land has been forthwith quickened into ten-fold activity. The triumph of American ideas over Mexican anarchy will be a triumph won in the interest of every civilized nation. This fact, and the fact that it can be won simply, naturally, and in the plain course of his duty as our Chief Magistrate, are the only reasons we can find for doubting whether Mr. Buchanan will choose to win it.

Paraguay and the President.

There are two sides to all things in nature, if we except the moon and Mr. Wood's Mayoralty; and the Paraguay Expedition demands a moment's criticism. Our Government has been, for some time past, making preparations the most tremendous to avenge an insult offered to our flag by that South American mandarin, Lopez; and our people, with that hot haste which distinguishes them whenever the national honor is concerned, and which in such happily rare contingencies is rather to be commended than condemned, have been content to indorse the action of the Administration. They have not, in fact, deemed it necessary to ask any very searching questions on the subject. The fact that a fort on the Paraguay River did positively fire into the American steamer Water-Witch while carrying out the objects of a scientific mission, dispatched by this Government and sanctioned by that of Paraguay, was esteemed, on all hands, a sufficient casus belli. To parley in such a case was to palter with the character of the Republic. Cannon must be answered with cannon; and nothing could save our wounded honor but a salvo of artillery, recognizing our triumphant flag on the towers (if towers there be where all the roofs are flat) of that city of Assumption, most appropriately named.

There are, however, other engagements besides the matrimonial tie, which, being accepted in haste, may be repented of at leisure. We yesterday published a letter signed "G. F. M.," and taken from the London News, which purported to have been written by an ex-officer in the English service, and to give a correct version of the causes that led to the attack on the Water-Witch.

Now, apart from the respectability of the journal in which this letter appears, we happen to have the best reason for believing its author to be what he professes himself, an impartial and credible witness to the facts he sets forth. And we must, therefore, ask for his statements the very grave consideration of the public.

This authority, then, affirms that the officers of the Water-Witch attempted, in defiance of express regulations, perfectly well known to themselves, to drive their vessel through a passage in the Parana interdicted to all but the vessels of the Paraguayan Government. No deficiencies of water in the public channel of the river could be pleaded as a reason for this outrage upon the Paraguayan customs, and the ordinances of the supreme authority of the State. There was room enough in the river, but the Water-Witch chose to make her own laws. A blank cartridge, fired from the Fort, produced no effect upon her officers; but a shotted gun, aimed wide of the vessel, and intended merely as a more emphatic remonstrance, drew from an independent cruiser a responsive volley of grape and canister. To this the indignant Paraguayans replied by a shot more sternly aimed, which killed a seaman on board of the steamer, and induced her Commander to put her out of harm's way as soon as possible.

Such are, in brief, the assertions of G. F. M. They may be controverted, but they cannot be overlooked. If they are well-founded, it is President Lopez, and not President Buchanan, who has a right to complain, in the name of his fellow-citizens, of an insulted nationality, and of an outraged public law; it is the people of Paraguay, and not those of the United States, who ought to be making the best preparation their limited means will [illegible] justice from the Grandee upon their rights. Perhaps the mysterious "organ" at Washington can throw some light on this question. We seek this light at hand, and shall know how to be grateful for it when properly dispensed. For these are not the days in which we can trifle with the responsibilities of our position—and the American people will be as slow to sanction any unprovoked onslaught upon a sister State, however small and silly, as to endure any outrage upon themselves. And in this connection we may also venture to inquire on what authority the Washington Union pronounces our means of exacting reparation from Paraguay "limited," and represents us in the light of a nation more mouthing than mighty? Very different and far more imposing was the tone of those thunders of impending war which rolled upon the startled ear of the nation a few months ago when the "British outrages" made the blood to boil in the veins of every skipper on our shores, from Squan Bay to Sable Island. We were then a match for the "Lion of the Seas." What mystic mischief has since unstrung our formidable nerves? The cruel and sarcastic foreigner may be tempted to infer from such assertions that we never expected to be called upon for the proof of our valor when we threatened Britain, and that we are sorely put to it now for the means of enforcing our threats upon the Central Flowery Republic of the South. We ourselves, of course, draw no such inference. We merely note the possibility of misconstruction involved in the lachrymose confessions of the "organ," and shall be as glad to believe that we have the power of doing justice in Paraguay, as to learn that we are really in a way to exercise that power, and for sufficient cause.

Gratifying Intelligence.

We are heartily rejoiced to learn from the Tribune, of yesterday, that a bill has been introduced into the State Senate of Vermont, which will, if passed, "effectually put a stop, so far as Vermont is concerned, to the attempts of Northern visitors to play the slaveholder within the limits of that State." We congratulate the people of Vermont on having erected a barrier which, it is hoped, may be permanent against the incursions of Slavery upon that State. Its soil and climate,—the peculiar character of its productions, and the singular temper of its people,—offer such strong inducements to Slaveholders to bring their chattels into that latitude, that it is highly gratifying to find that adequate precautions have been taken by law against such proceedings. The bill to which the Tribune refers proposes to punish, by fine and imprisonment, any person who shall bring a slave into Vermont with intent to hold him there in that capacity. We presume it was intended to ward off an impending peril; that secret intelligence had been obtained, of a purpose on the part of the South to transport their slaves by the thousand to the shores of Lake Champlain and the ridges of the Green Mountains,—and that the people of this gallant State made haste to protect themselves against this fearful danger by the enactment of the law in question.

We hope they will succeed, and that no attempt will ever be made hereafter to hold any man as a slave within the State of Vermont. But we are compelled to confess our belief that the only danger of such an attempt grows out of the enactment of the very law in question. We do not believe it would ever enter the head of the most extravagant and inordinate fire-eater in all the South, to take a single slave into Vermont, in the ordinary course of things. We do not recall the instance in which such an attempt has ever been made. We doubt if the memory of the oldest inhabitant can revert to any occasion on which any Southern slaveholder has endeavored to do what this law is intended to forbid. But after such a law shall be enacted, it is barely possible that some rabid, excitable, pro-Slavery fanatic in the South may say to himself that such a law is in flat hostility to the Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States, and that, for the purpose of testing the question, he will take a slave into Vermont and subject himself to the operation of this law. Thus, he will flatter himself, a fine collision between State and Federal authority can be brought about:—we will see a Northern State compelled to take the ground of nullification,—and possibly we may thus make some progress towards that dissolution of the Union which it is the special wish of his heart to bring about.

We should think much more highly of the practical wisdom and prudence of the legislators of Vermont if they would quietly lay this bill upon the table, as one which is not called for by any public necessity, and the only effect of which will be to stir up anew feelings of animosity and of distrust on the part of the Southern States. We do them the justice of believing that they understand perfectly the utter inutility of such a law, for all purposes except those of agitation. They know that slaves will not, under any circumstances, be brought into Vermont, and that even if they should be, the fortress of liberty would be in no special peril from their incursions. Such legislation as that proposed is the exact counterpart of the fire-eating demonstrations of the Southern States, and belongs to the same category as the schemes for restoring the Slave-trade, annulling the Federal Government, conquering Kansas, and making negroes the end and aim of our Republican institutions. It is time that sensible men, in all sections, should discountenance such child's-play in our halls of legislation.

The Atlantic Telegraph.

The conclusion is, we fear, as inevitable as it is unwelcome, that the present Atlantic Cable has already performed all the practical service—and it has not been much—which it was destined to afford. Language was the only spell which could convert the coil of gum and metal, now lying at the bottom of the ocean, into the fairy link which was to bind nations together in peace and amity; and that spell is broken. Without it, the romance of the cable dies, and the dumb treasure serves no purpose but to mark the first step towards perfection in this new pathway of science and enterprise.

The last mail from England announces that the Telegraph station at Valentia has been closed, and that the clerks have been dismissed. It is suggested that this step was taken with the view of getting entirely rid of the influence of Mr. Whitehouse, whose proposals to experiment on the cable have been rejected by the Company. It is scarcely possible, however, to accept this suggestion as sufficient reason to hope for a revival of telegraphic communication through the present means. Were the abnegation of Mr. Whitehouse's influence the only object to be obtained, this end might have been reached by simply supplying the places of the [illegible] Directors have gone [illegible] end. The sanctioned laying of the cable may be merely in pursuance of war measures, or may be done with a view to prepare in season the nucleus of a new scheme to be carried out next year. The difficulties of establishing telegraphic communication between the Old and New Worlds, however, have not been materially diminished by the first partially-successful attempt. The form of the cable to be laid down, the materials of which it should be composed, and the manner in which those materials would be best employed in such a purpose, have yet to be decided on. The present cord is found to have been strong enough to be laid, but apparently not sufficiently compact to resist the excessive tension to which its service subjected it. The form in which it was put together does not seem to have been adapted for the preservation of that form. If it had the advantage of being strong, it had also the disadvantage of being heavy. Its only serviceable quality appears to have been its pliability; but the result would serve to show that this has been obtained at the expense of its power to retain the form which, while it made the cable supple, was also destined to give it strength. Almost the only practical benefit, therefore, that has as yet been derived from experience, in connection with the Atlantic Telegraph, is to be found in the perfection of the paying-out machinery. This is undoubtedly a great point gained; but it leaves a great many others yet to be groped for.

During the next three or four months we may expect to see many projects for other telegraphic lines between Europe and America placed before the public—but we trust that none of them will be fully undertaken before further experiments have been made with a view to arrive at the right means to be employed for the attainment of an object which the people of both worlds have so much at heart. There are many scientific persons who believe that the Leviathan, or Great Eastern, is destined to lay the first cable which shall be practically useful. The theory is that at least double the quantity of cable called for by the actual distance should be laid, in order that there might be sufficient to occupy the surface of any inequalities in the bed of the ocean which may lie in the path of the wire—and that the wire should be freely run out of the ship without the friction of brakes or any other machinery that can check its speed. The Leviathan is the only vessel capable of stowing so much cable, and, indeed, there is, to say the least, a singular coincidence in the simultaneous realization of these two gigantic schemes which almost indicates the propriety of their junction in the accomplishment of the greatest wonder of the age.

Our fellow-townsman, Mr. Harmer, has long conceived the idea of coating submarine cables with a solution of quartz,—a process which, by means of his recent inventions, he claims to be perfectly feasible, and which he asserts will increase the strength of the cable without adding to its weight until it leaves the ship, besides rendering it entirely impervious to water, and effectually precluding the possibility of an interruption of the insulation. We know not how far Mr. Harmer would succeed in demonstrating the practicability or the advantages of his process, but this or any other plan put forward by respectable persons should command attention before anything positive is decided on in regard to the connection of the two continents by telegraph.

Dr. Gaillardet's Escape.

The escape of Dr. Gaillardet from Officer Baker is treated by Judge Russell's special organ as affording a species of miraculous revelation concerning the management of our criminal Courts. In commenting on the subject the Herald says:

"Why should a prisoner with money at his command be allowed the privilege of a daily or nightly frolic round town, under the wing of an accommodating policeman, while the penniless vagrant under detention for a similar offence is denied the liberty of passing beyond the walls of the jail? The rule should be uniform, and the prisoner, with or without money, until released on bail, should be held as a prisoner within the prison walls."

Either the Herald's ignorance is affected, or its Editor has shamefully neglected his opportunities for acquiring knowledge on this subject. His confidential friend, Judge Russell, could have told him—and probably has done so—that "prisoners with money" are always allowed "privileges" which are virtuously denied to men who cannot afford to pay. The City Judge could have informed him that the very first night after his conviction was spent by Dr. Gaillardet in a much more comfortable apartment than his cell in the City Prison,—Judge Russell's officer Baker, meanwhile, keeping watch and ward sound asleep in an adjoining room. We have no doubt that our City Judge can furnish our virtuous neighbor with the names of at least a dozen prisoners who have been indulged in "frolics round town" by accommodating officers, having had money to pay for the trouble and risk of such little pleasure jaunts. Indeed one of the Judge's officers admitted on Monday, in the presence of Officer Baker, and with his assent, that it was a usual thing, where prisoners could pay for it, thus to allow them, for a consideration, the indulgences of the town.

Gaillardet's case is too plain for doubt or question of any kind. It bears unmistakable evidence of having been deliberately and carefully planned from the beginning. As we have already stated, attempts were made to secure the assent of Mr. Crawford to his assistant's escape from justice,—and it was positively asserted that no other difficulty would be encountered, and that $10,000 could be raised to accomplish the object. Under these circumstances it is impossible to suppose that Gaillardet's being absent for whom he was not wanted,—his going to the Fourth-avenue instead of back to the City Prison when the mistake was discovered,—his spending four or five hours in visiting friends in different parts of the City,—his dining with four "hungry Frenchmen," and spending five hours at the table—his leaving the room and failure to return,—were accidental or done on the impulse of the moment. Every step of the whole proceeding, beyond all question has been distinctly planned,—and those who helped him through the affair were accomplices from the start; and if any doubt whatever could rest upon Officer Baker's part in the transaction, his concealing the escape for two days would be quite enough to dispel it forever.

There is promise of an inquiry before the Recorder to-day, but we do not see what any such formal proceeding can establish, except possibly to show that no legal proof of Baker's complicity can be produced, and that he cannot therefore be subjected to any punishment. But Judge Russell is responsible for his conduct, and he knows well enough whether it has been such as to inspire confidence in that branch of our criminal justice which is under his direction and control. Does he propose to retain Mr. Baker in his special service hereafter? [illegible]

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

The Alleged Escape of Dr. Gallagher.—[illegible] Gallagher, who have been received [illegible] has failed to report himself [illegible] the latest runaway [illegible] any part of Canada as his [illegible] place of asylum. This morning Recorder [illegible] will inquire into the conduct of Officer [illegible] and investigate, as far as possible, the [illegible] of the Doctor's escape from prison. Mr. [illegible], the warden of the Tombs, to whom we made reference yesterday, in connection with the Doctor's escape, is desirous of exculpating himself from complicity in the affair. By the tenure of his [illegible] he is bound to "hold safely keep the bodies of the prisoners delivered to his charge;" but he is [illegible] to deliver them from their cells into the custody of any officer of the Court of Sessions, who produces an order to that effect, signed by the Clerk of the Court. And while thus absent from the prison, his whereabouts is no affair of the Warden's. Prisoners are often taken from the Tombs, in the custody of an officer, for the furtherance of the ends of justice. A man or boy convicted of larceny, for instance, who has sold the proceeds of his theft to a receiver of stolen goods, will often be taken by the officer to point out the place where the goods were sold; and, some times, if it is necessary to keep such culprits out of prison, they are allowed to sleep at their cells all night. In the case of Dr. Gallagher, who have [illegible] friends to confer distinction on their [illegible] who are permitted to sit by the [illegible] smoke cigars with their friends, it is not unusual to allow a freedom from constraint [illegible] to the distinguished prisoners. Restaurants, theatres, have been thus visited by the state prisoners. But the prisoners are usually honorable, and the officers in charge place implicit reliance on their promise not to attempt to escape. Officer [illegible] confirmed the statements of Dr. Gallagher [illegible] that he would as soon have [illegible] Officer Baker must [illegible] Prison visiting friends [illegible] in no case, if a prisoner is removed [illegible] of being taken to Court, ask to be [illegible] his cell after that hour, except when [illegible] trial, if the Court has not at that time adjourned. A Dinner in the Fourth Avenue, which commenced at 5 P. M., and did not (with the accessories) terminate till 10 P. M., was altogether beyond the prison regulations, and no one knew that better than Mr. Baker. But a thorough investigation will take place before the Recorder to-day, when many matters now involved in doubt and mystery, may possibly be cleared up.

Homeward Bound—How to Live Cheaply.—Probably there is no country in the world where the greatest style of living is so extravagant and wasteful as among us. The science of household economy has never been cultivated by our people with any care or success,—and the average cost of living is probably fifty per cent. higher than in any other country. Yet every one knows that there are various methods of avoiding waste,—while but few comparatively have been disposed or willing to put them in practice. We mentioned some months since that a house had been opened in the City where several families lived at first cost,—dividing the expense, which was kept as low as possible, equally among them, and that the results were quite astonishing to those who had never looked closely into the subject. It was under the charge of Mr. Unszelmann, and was essentially and designedly a socialist experiment,—all the parties thus connected together being of that school of philosophers. Probably their harmony of sentiment may avoid some of the sources of discord which are quite certain sooner or later to arise in all such attempts at "reconstructing society,"—and few [illegible] will ever dream that such schemes can be made general. But the economy of such an arrangement has nothing to do with the socialism of [illegible] it, and it may be found well worth [illegible] of limited means, to study the good [illegible] such experiments, and to see whether it [illegible] separated from what is objectionable in them. Of the economy of this style of living there can be no doubt. The original establishment is still in successful operation,—another on a similar plan has been established in Thirteenth-street, and both are constantly receiving applications from more persons than they can possibly accommodate. We hear, too, that in Boston, Philadelphia and other cities, the plan is [illegible] and has been extensively adopted. Mr. [illegible] has now added what is styled the European plan to his establishment, furnishing separate [illegible] of having all dine at a common table. There is no mystery about the matter; it consists simply in furnishing everything at precisely what it costs. All the expenses of the household are included in one amount, which is divided pro rata among the [illegible]. At the restaurant prices of soups, fish, [illegible] and roasted, &c., range from two to [illegible] cents, poultry from seven to nine,—while tea, coffee, and small articles are charged at one cent. There is no doubt that the economy of the arrangement is very decided, and it is altogether probable that it will be quite generally adopted by persons who have heretofore kept up expensive establishments, and who can command greater household comforts than they can practice under other arrangements.

Commissioners of Emigration—Measures against the Quarantine Incendiaries.—The Board met yesterday afternoon at the usual hour, G. C. Verplanck in the Chair. After the reading of the minutes, the following resolution was offered: Resolved, That a special Committee, consisting of the President and the Mayor of New-York, be appointed and hereby authorized to take such legal measures as in their judgment may be necessary and expedient against incendiarism as well as against Richmond County for destruction of property at Quarantine. Mr. Curtis thought the resolution unnecessary, as the property belonged to the State, and the Commissioners could undertake to fight out its battles but their own. The resolution was adopted after some few words in defence of the [illegible] of the resolution was passed. Mr. Casserly [illegible] to a case of peculiar hardship which had come to his notice. An emigrant, on arriving at Castle Garden recently, found that his chest, which contained his money and clothes, was of such a size that it was impossible to take it from the ship through the port-hole, from which the rest of the baggage was landed. On speaking to the officers of the south side of the sailors, they assured him that it would be safe where it was. He then left the vessel and went on shore. Before he returned his chest was broken open, and not only his money, amounting to $1,300, but all his clothes, abstracted. Mr. Casserly stated it as his opinion that the entire amount might be recovered from the owners of the vessel, though they were aliens. To do this it would be necessary that the emigrant robbed should give surety. Mr. C. asked the Board to authorize him to act as such. The matter was referred to him with power. From the weekly report it appears that, to the 5th of November inst., 74,317 emigrants had arrived, against 172,709 to the same date last year; the total number of inmates in the Institutions is 11,115, against 7,097 at this time last year; the balance of cash in hand is $26,830 57.

The Firemen and the Late C. V. Anderson.—The funeral of the late Cornelius V. Anderson will take place to-day, from his late residence in Bank-street. A meeting of the Engineers and Foremen of the Fire Department was held last evening, at Firemen's Hall, in Mercer-street, for the purpose of making arrangements to attend the funeral, and to adopt such other measures as might be considered necessary to show the estimation in which the deceased was held by the members of the Department of which he was Chief. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Bowne, the Chief Engineer, who, on taking the Chair, paid a warm tribute to the character of the deceased, testifying to his ability as a fireman, his courtesy as a gentleman and his bearing as a public officer. Resolutions evincing more than ordinary esteem for the deceased were passed, sympathizing with his family, and declaring that in his death "the Department has sustained an irreparable loss, since, as a fireman he was the Bayard of the service, without fear and without reproach; as an officer he was never forward where duty called him, but on the Chief Executive head of the Department he commanded the love, honor and obedience of all who were privileged to serve under him." The resolutions were ably spoken to by Messrs. Jesse Carson, W. H. Wheeler, James Kelsey, John Blackman and others. It was further resolved that the Fire Department attend the funeral of the late lamented Ex-Chief Engineer, and assemble this morning at 11 o'clock on Twenty-fourth-street. The officers will appear without badges, and the Department without music, banners or badges.

Parade to-day.—This being the anniversary of the Evacuation of New-York by the British, the day will be appropriately observed by a grand parade of the First Division New-York State Militia. The Division line will be formed by Col. Wetmore, the Division Inspector, on Fourteenth-street, with its right on Broadway, precisely at 11 A. M. Major-General Sandford will then review. Immediately thereafter, Brigadier-General Yates will fire from Union-square a salute in honor of the Commander-in-Chief, and Governor King, accompanied by his staff, will review the entire division. The line will then be thrown into column, and the Governor will join the Commanding General of Division. The distinguished South American, General Paez, has been invited to join the Commanding General. He will appear at the head of the Division, and will accompany it during the march. The General will be treated in the uniform of a cavalry officer—a service in which he greatly distinguished himself in days past. The line of march will be down Broadway, through Chambers and Centre streets to the Park, where the honors of a marching salute will be paid to the distinguished guests present.

The Georgia Lottery.—The great lottery case in which Benjamin Wood—brother of the Ex-Mayor—Samuel Swartwout and others, Rice, proprietors, and Lyons & Bryant, agents, Georgia Lottery, [illegible] Georgia, are to be tried for violation of the Lottery act of 1848, was set down for trial at Augusta, Georgia, for Monday, Nov. 19, but, when the case was reached at the appointed time, the Hon. A. H. Stephens, counsel for the defendants, stated that his associate in the case was unwell, and he could not proceed without him. The Attorney-General opposed an adjournment; he believed that it was asked for merely to gain time. Judge Bond, however, adjourned the case till next May. The Attorney-General said he was determined to break up the lottery, and he should prosecute those concerned in it in the City Court every time that the lottery was drawn.

Arctic Explorations.—Dr. Rae, of Canada, the Arctic explorer, will deliver an address this evening at Niblo's, before the American Geographical and Statistical Society, on Arctic Explorations, illustrating the Life and Customs of the Esquimaux, and exhibiting some of the recovered relics after Sir John Franklin's party. The long and valuable experience which Dr. Rae acquired on his wanderings among the Esquimaux and in the Arctic regions under the most trying circumstances, enables him to discuss this interesting subject, which will be illustrated by suitable maps and diagrams.

Board of Canvassers.—The Board met again yesterday, and was presided over by Mr. Pease. Messrs. Bleas, Kennedy, Stillman, Stewart, Ball and Cuneo reported that they had footed up the returns of their respective districts, and having found them correct, had signed them. A conversation then ensued as to the propriety of the chairman's signing the returns, pending the law issue. The matter seemed to be decided against the signing of aggregate returns. Without having transacted any business of consequence, the Board adjourned on Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

Police Reports.

The Broadway Gambling-House Murder.—The examination upon the charge of perjury preferred against Catharine Mulhearn, accusing her of having sworn falsely in her affidavit charging Robert Willis with having murdered a man at his gambling-house, No. 521 Broadway, was concluded yesterday afternoon before Justice Welsh. The testimony of two additional witnesses was taken for the defence—that of Mrs. Anne Verney, of No. 125 Spring-street, and of Franklin Heaney, a carpenter. The female witness contradicted the evidence of Mrs. Rochliffe. She stated that the latter told her (witness) that she heard a fight, and that the language uttered by Mr. Willis was the same as reported in the affidavit of Catharine Mulhearn. She stated further, that Mrs. Rochliffe told her (witness) that "Willis had murdered a man and no mistake," and that he had cut a dog's ears and spattered the blood in the hall entry-way, and around the cistern, for the purpose of concealing the murder. The witness was cross-examined at length, but made no deviation from her first statement. Mr. Heaney's testimony was directly counter to that of Henry Clark, the colored waiter in the employ of Mr. Willis. At the conclusion of the evidence Ex-Judge Stuart and Mr. Busted, the opposing counsel, made lengthy summing-up speeches, on a motion by the former to dismiss the complaint. The magistrate denied the motion, and decided to hold the accused to bail in $500 to answer before the Grand Jury. Mr. John Casey gave the required bail, and Catharine was allowed to go home with her friends instead of being remanded to the Tombs, where she has been confined over a month.

One of the Philadelphia Firemen Stabbed.—A company of young fellows regaled themselves at 2 A.M. yesterday, with "coffee and cakes" at Meschutt's establishment, corner of Broadway and Howard-street. They ate heartily, and paid for what they ate, but their demonstrations while in the saloon were not of the most orderly character. Leaving the saloon they marched up Broadway. At the corner of Spring-street they encountered a gang of fast youths, engaged in nocturnal perambulations. When Greek met Greek then came the tug of war. The opposing gangs felt belligerently disposed, and the result was a general set-to. Vigorous blows were struck from the shoulder, copious quantities of claret drawn, and beavers and faces badly damaged. One of the party, named John Bryan, received a stab under the right shoulder, but fortunately he was the only one seriously injured. The injured youth was taken to the Eighth Ward Station-house, Police Surgeon Lewis called, and his wound dressed. Bryan had a considerable amount of money about his person, and his companions stated that the assault was made upon them for the purpose of robbery. No arrests were made. The stabbed young man proved to be one of the members of the Hibernia Engine Company, of Philadelphia, now on a visit to this City.

A Victim to Highway Robbery Refusing to Prosecute.—Mr. H. P. Acton was passing through Avenue A at a late hour Tuesday evening on his way home, when he was suddenly attacked by three highwaymen. One of them knocked him down, and the others rifled his pockets of $3 75, and attempted to get possession of his gold watch, but failed. One of the assailants, Martin Peter, a carpenter, residing in the vicinity, was arrested by the Seventeenth Ward Police. The prisoner was taken to the Station-house where Mr. Acton had been conveyed, and was fully identified as one of the parties who attacked and robbed him. Mr. Acton was very indignant, as any citizen under the circumstances would be, and expressed a determination to do his utmost for the punishment of the offenders. After sleeping on the matter, and consultation in the morning with the wife of the prisoner and other parties, the vindictive spirit previously exhibited suddenly subsided, and despite the urgent remonstrance of Capt. Hart, he refused to enter any complaint in the case. The prisoner was accordingly discharged.

Burglaries and Arrests.—Between 2 and 3 yesterday morning, the porter, who sleeps in the tailor's store of George W. Farnham, No. 416 Broadway, was awakened by hearing strange footsteps. He immediately instituted a search for the intruder, after having summoned two policemen, and they found a young man stowed away in a closet behind some boxes. They brought him to the gaslight and he gave the name of James Wilson. He had with him a carpet-bag, in which were jimmies, chisels, skeleton keys and other burglars' implements. About 5 o'clock an Eighth Ward Policeman discovered a youth coming out of the dwelling-house corner of Houston and Sullivan streets. On seeing the officer the youngster made tracks, but the former being more swift-footed soon overtook him. The prisoner, who gave his name as George Stewart, had a complete "kit" of burglar's tools and a pistol in his possession. The two prisoners were conveyed yesterday before a Police Magistrate and properly cared for.

Arrests of Alleged Lottery Ticket Venders.—Last night Officer Quick, of the Mayor's Squad, arrested Abraham Joseph Asche, Rabbi of the Jewish congregation Beth Hemedrash, in Christie-street, on a charge of vending Prussian and Hamburg lottery tickets. The prisoner was taken to the Sixth Precinct Station-house and locked up. Officer Palsc, also of the Mayor's Squad, arrested a man named Moses Levi, at No. 387 Broome-street, on a charge similar to the above. He was taken to the Fourteenth Precinct Station-house. The prisoners will be examined today, before Justice Welsh, at the City Hall Police Court.

Recovery of a Large Amount of Waubeek Bank Bills.—Yesterday afternoon Detectives Stowey and King recovered over $200,000 of Waubeek Bank bills, at a broker's office in Wall-street. The Waubeek Bank was a bogus concern, a full account of which appeared in the Times a few days since. The above amount of money was left on deposit by Mr. Hiner, the quasi President of the concern, under which he received a loan. The broker supposed the bank to be in good standing when he made the advance, and was not advised to the contrary until the whole affair exploded by the interference of the Police authorities.

Had Her Pocket Picked.—Mrs. Fenton, a widow woman, on her way to Chicago, Ill., had her pocket picked, yesterday morning, of $83, while in a crowd, in landing from the steamboat Ansonia, at Peck-slip. She with her little daughter had been to Connecticut to attend a funeral, and was on her way home. The above sum was all the money she had in the world.

Arrest of a Hotel Thief.—Margaret Miller, a colored woman, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Stephenson and Wilson, on a charge of robbing the United States Hotel at Saratoga, N. Y., of a quantity of table linen, silver-ware, &c., the whole valued at $235. The prisoner was arrested in Twenty-ninth-street, between the Seventh and Eighth avenues. On searching her, part of the stolen property was found.

Attempted Rescue.—The harbor police arrested yesterday morning, upon a requisition from Gov. King, William Kinney, an Irishman, an alleged fugitive from New-Jersey. A gang of the prisoner's friends attempted his rescue, but after feeling the weight of the officer's clubs on their craniums, backed down from their attempt. The prisoner was taken to New-Jersey for trial.

New Counterfeit.—Counterfeit tens on the Marine Bank of this City made their appearance yesterday. The bill is altered from bills of the same denomination on the Farmer's Bank.

Bank of Wickford, R. I., an Exploded Concern.—The vignette represents a herd of cattle and some drovers. On the right is the State coat of arms, and on the left medallion cuts of a man, horse and dog.

Requisition for Policemen in Westchester County.—For many weeks past the citizens of Yorktown and vicinity have been infested by a gang of burglars, whose depredations have been of so bold a character that a vigilance committee and citizens' police have been organized for protection. This morning the General Superintendent received a requisition from two Justices of Yorktown, and one of Cortlandt, for officers to assist in bringing the offenders to justice. The intersposition of the Board was also asked. Commissioner Stillman remarked that Westchester County paid nothing for policemen, and deserved no assistance; to which the Superintendent replied that he had been once suspended for not sending men to Richmond County, where the same objection exists. Two officers were accordingly detailed for five days' service in Westchester, and we may expect some account of the burglars.

Putnam in the Police.—It is in contemplation to apply to the Legislature, the coming Winter, for an act attaching Putnam County to the Metropolitan Police District. The Board of Supervisors of that county are understood to be favorable to the measure, and will take the necessary initiatory steps.—Evening Post.

Fires.

In Washington-street—Death of a Man from Suffocation.—A fire occurred at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the tenement house at the corner of Washington and Laight streets, resulting in one of the inmates—Edward Noonan, a man 50 years old—losing his life from suffocation. The fire originated in the first floor, and was a most destructive one, as the house, and was a mass of very inflammable habits. He had the misfortune to be in bed, sleeping off the effects of a night's debauch when the fire was discovered. In the confusion and excitement following the breaking out of the flames he was forgotten. The fire was soon extinguished, and afterwards the dead body of Noonan was discovered in his room; he had evidently died from suffocation. The body was removed to the Fifth Ward Station-house, and after an inquest had been held by Coroner Hills, a verdict was rendered in accordance with the above statement. The deceased was a widower and without any family. The total damage—caused principally by water—was $500, and is uninsured. Mr. Jesse Dossous was the lessee of the house, and occupied the place, together with some dozen other families.

In Eleventh-street.—At 10½ P. M., on Tuesday an explosion of a camphene lamp occurred at the residence of Daniel Morse, No. 219 Eleventh-street. Mr. Morse and his wife were badly burned. The fire was extinguished before it had got under much headway, the damage not exceeding $50. No public alarm of the fire was given.

In Oak-street.—The alarm of fire for the Seventh District, at 12½ o'clock this morning, was caused by a fire on the top floor of the dwelling No. 20 Oak-street, occupied by Mr. Cammer as a sailor's boarding house. The fire originated from a pipe setting fire to a straw bed. Damage about $10.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

A Policeman Shot at by Burglars—Narrow Escape.—At about 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening last, as officer Lyons of the 9th Precinct, was passing through Throop Avenue from Myrtle to Flushing, he suddenly came upon three burglars engaged in quarreling over the spoils of a burglary, doubtless just committed by them. One of the three had a stocking filled with something which the officer supposed to be silver. He accordingly made a spring and seized this one as being the most valuable prize. No sooner was his presence discovered by the companions of the man seized, than they dragged the officer to the ground, and started off at full speed. At this time, and while officer Lyons was regaining his feet, the man first seized levelled a pistol at him and fired. The ball entered just above the number on his cap, and passed through the top, and also through the hair on top of his head. The man then wheeled, and with his companions was seen exit. Officer Lyons fired a sparling salute of three shots at them, and is confident that one of his balls took effect. The night beat of this officer is equal in size to any of the inner Wards of the city. This is the second time the Police have been fired upon by burglars in this District within four weeks.

New Christian Association.—The young men connected with the different churches in Bedford and in the vicinity of Clinton and Washington avenues to Myrtle, have recently organized an association to cultivate the religious and social graces, which bids fair to rival in point of enterprise any similar society in the city. The society is called "The Young Men's Christian and Social Union," and is intended to occupy the same ground in that portion of the city in which it is located that the Young Men's Christian Association occupies in the more southerly part of the city, and whose headquarters it is considered are too far off to meet the wants intended to be supplied by the new organization. This society has grown out of a meeting of six young men, held in the vestry of Washington-avenue Church a few months ago for the purpose of prayer and consultation.

A Pastor Sues for his Salary.—A suit was tried in the Circuit Court yesterday before Judge Emott and a Jury, in which the Rev. David J. Patterson appeared as plaintiff, and the First Reformed Dutch Church as defendants. The suit was brought to recover six months salary due on the 1st of July, 1858. The defence set up a plea that the Society was not an incorporated body, and therefore could make no legal agreement for pastor's salary, and also that the services were not worth the amount claimed. The Jury, after hearing all of the circumstances in the case, rendered a verdict for plaintiff, awarding $392 68—the full amount claimed.

Stolen Property Recovered.—Officers Ray and Faoss yesterday arrested a noted thief named Ann McDonnell, on suspicion of having robbed several houses in Brooklyn recently. While on the way to the Station-House she attempted to swallow several pawn-tickets, representing property valued at $50. The tickets were recovered, and the property, which consists of dresses, under-clothes, shawls, &c., can be seen at the office of the Deputy Superintendent of Police.

The Orphans.—The Orphan Asylum on Cumberland-street has been open for two days past, to receive the annual donations of money, clothing and provisions from those disposed to aid this noble cause. Owing to the storm on Tuesday the number of visitors was quite limited, but yesterday a large number called, and the donations were liberal. This institution is under the care of lady managers, who enjoy the entire confidence of the community. The average number of inmates is 150.

Found Drowned.—The body of Edward Quinn, laborer, who suddenly disappeared two weeks ago, was found, yesterday, in the water near the foot of Kelsey's alley. The deceased leaves a widow and four children, who reside at the corner of Warren and Columbia streets, South Brooklyn.

County Court.—This Court was occupied, yesterday, in the trial of several unimportant cases, after which it was adjourned to Dec. 8.

Court Calendar.—Nov. 25.—Circuit Court—Nos. 73, 82. City Court.—Nos. 33, 39, 29, 45, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74.

Naval Intelligence.

The U. S. frigate Sabine, Commander Shubrick, sailed from Bermuda, after repairing, Nov. 9.

Movements at the Navy-yard.—At the Brooklyn Navy-yard the work of fitting away the Paraguay steamers progresses. The Atlanta went into commission yesterday at 1 P. M., and the sailors and marines were sent on board. Annexed is a correct list of the Atlanta's officers: Commander, D. B. Ridgely; Lieutenants, John Downes, George B. Bier, J. R. Eggleston, H. M. Garland; Passed Assistant-Surgeon, J. M. Brown; Second Assistant-Engineer, Thomas J. Jones; Third Assistant-Engineers, W. S. Thompson, E. B. Layon, W. H. Gladding. The Atlanta carries two large nine-inch guns, twelve officers, fourteen marines, and about one hundred sailors. She and the Calezonia have had deck-houses placed amidships to furnish accommodations for General Paez and his party. They are announced to sail on Saturday. No orders have been received to anchor off the Battery to take the Venezuelians on board, from which it is inferred, though as yet not definitely known, that he will embark at the Navy-yard. The powder-boat went to Ellis' Island yesterday for ammunition. The Westernport had to have all her steam-pipes removed to render her fit for service, which has delayed her departure. She is moored opposite the Navy-yard. The frigate San Jacinto was yesterday taken into the Dry Dock, where she will be stripped and repaired.

The Brooklyn under Steam.—Steam was applied yesterday to the United States sloop-of-war Brooklyn, built by Jacob A. Westervelt—the engines having been manufactured by Jas. Murphy & Co., under the superintendence of the Ex-Engineer-in-Chief, Daniel B. Martin. The trial was a complete success, the engines making forty revolutions. No fault or imperfection appeared.

Operations of the Coast Survey.—The general operations of the Coast Survey service for the years 1858-9, with the names of the vessels employed, and also of the heads of each department, are as follows: The steamer Bibb, Lieutenant-Commanding Alexander Murray, is at present at Jersey City, refitting for the Winter's cruise. During the past Summer she has been employed on the coasts of Maine, New-Hampshire and Massachusetts, between Portland and Cape Ann; also in the survey of George's Bank and Nantucket Shoal. The time occupied in this cruise was about four months. Her destination is Cape Henry, Cape Fear, and the coasts of Virginia and North Carolina.

The steamer Corwin, Lieutenant-Commanding T. Augustus Craven, is at the Navy-yard undergoing general repairs. She has recently returned from a cruise North, having visited the harbors of New-Haven, Boston, Portland and Salem. In New-Haven harbor an important sunken rock was discovered, not laid down on any of the charts. It was properly buoyed, and is to be known on the charts as Luddington Rock. In Boston Harbor they surveyed the channel through Shirley's Gut. In Portland the survey of Casco Bay was continued. The visit to Salem was for the purpose of verifying the Coast Survey charts, which were found to be correct. Early in January the Commander proceeds to the Coast of Florida, where she will take charge of the survey of the Florida reefs. The steam-tug Fergy, and schooner Varina, Lieutenant-Commanding Faunteleroy, are now engaged upon inshore service in surveying Savannah River, St. Catherines and Sapelo Sounds, and Sapelo River. The Fergy is the smallest steamer belonging to the service, but from her light draft she is peculiarly fitted for the business of river surveying. The tender, Varina, is about 130 tons, and carries some sixty men.

Steamer Vixen, Lieutenant-Commanding J. K. Duer, in connection with the Corwin, is to be engaged in observations for ocean temperature and others, in the Gulf Stream, off the coasts of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia; also, in the hydrography south of Cedar Keys, including the Crystal River offing, Homosassa River, St. Martin's Reef, and the approaches of St. George's and St. Vincent's Sounds; also, of Apalachicola and Pensacola harbors.

Steamer Walker, Lieutenant-Commanding Hunter, is at Philadelphia, refitting for service on the coasts of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, including the Delta of the Mississippi River, of Atchafalaya Bay and its approaches, west of the meridian of Point Chevreuil and the off-shore hydrography of the coast of Texas.

Steamer Hetzel and schooner Graham, Lieut. Commanding ——, are at Norfolk, refitting for hydrographical survey of the Potomac and James Rivers, of Charleston Harbor and its approaches, of Cape Fear and Winyah Bay, N. C., and also the off-shore hydrography of that part of the coast.

Steamer Active, Lieutenant-Commanding James Alger, is on the Pacific coast, engaged in the hydrography of Humboldt and Tomales Bays, the coasts of Point Reyes and Mare, also of the coasts of Oregon and Washington Territories, of Puget Sound, Hay and its dependencies, and of the straits and sounds of Simon Juan.

During the past Summer the hydrography of Kennebec River and along the coasts of Maine, has been continued by the party on board the schooner Vixen, under Lieutenant-Commanding J. H. Moore.

In the work of triangulation and topography of the coast of the United States, there are some twenty schooners employed, under the supervision of Prof. A. D. Bache. These vessels vary in size from twenty to one hundred and fifty tons, and are generally of light draft to admit of their operating in shoal waters. They each carry, besides an effective crew, a complete surveying party, making from thirty to forty men each. The presence of these "long, low, black schooners" off the headlands and harbor entrances of the coast sometimes give rise to suspicions that there are slavers about. These names are the Arago, Bancroft, Belle, Crawford, Ewing, Franklin, Gallatin, Gordon, Graham, Guthrie, C. M. Bache, Hassler, Joseph Henry, J. F. Mason, Meredith, Nautilus, Phoenix, Patras, Vancouver, Walker, N. Bowditch, Bartlett, Sumner, Madison and others.

The triangulation of the coast of Maine, east of the Kennebec River, was continued the past season by Sub-Assistant Benj. Hassler, in Gulf-Pobscot Bay, by C. O. Boutelle. Of the coast of South Carolina, south from St. Helena Sound, by C. O. Boutelle, to be done during the coming Winter. The Dobey Sound and Altamaha River, and of the coast of Georgia, between Sapelo Sound and St. Simon's entrance, by Mr. F. P. Webster. The eastern coast of Florida, below St. John's River, will be continued southward by Sub-Assistant Benj. Hassler, Jr. From Cape Canaveral northwest will be commenced by Sub-Assistant O. Fauntleroy across the Peninsula of Florida, between Fernandina and Cedar Keys, by Capt. M. L. Smith, United States Topographical Engineers. Of the Sounds, Islands and Main south of Key Biscayne Bay, Fla., and from the Cape Sable base, with that from Key Biscayne base, through the interior Keys, by Lieut. A. H. Seward, U. S. A., assisted by Lieut. Wm. Myers, U. S. A. Of Charlotte Harbor and approaches, and of the adjacent coast of Florida, by Lieuts. J. C. Clauss and W. R. Tassin, U. S. A. Of the coast of Florida south of Homosassa River, by Sub-Assistant G. H. Baewell. Of St. George's Sound, with that of St. Marks and Ochlockonee River, by Sub-Assistant S. C. McCombs. Of Pensacola Harbor by Assistant F. H. Gerrish. Of Chandeleur Sound southward, by Sub-Assistant Stephen Harris. Of Côte Blanche Bay, La., into Vermilion Bay, by Assistant F. H. Gerrish. The coast of Texas will be continued south of Matagorda Bay by Assistant S. A. Gilmore. Of the harbors and other important points of the coast of California, and that of Oregon and Washington Territories, by Assistant George Davidson.

The topography of the Kennebec River, Maine, has been continued by Assistant R. M. Bache, and the coast east of it commenced by Sub-Assistant W. S. Gilbert. Of Casco Bay generally, including that of Portland harbor, by Assistants A. W. Longfellow and A. S. Wadsworth. Of the coast of Massachusetts by A. M. Harrison. Of the Peninsula on the ocean side of Maryland by Sub-Assistant Chas. Pendexter. Of North and South Carolina by C. P. Rollins; the same between Charleston and Georgetown harbors; and of St. Helena Sound, by Assistant John Saip. Of Sapelo Sound by Sub-Assistant J. A. Sullivan. Of the Keys south and west of Key Largo by Sub-Assistant C. T. Jardella. Of Charlotte Harbor by Mr. F. W. Dorr. Of the coast of Florida, south of Homosassa River, by Mr. N. S. Finney. Of the Coasts and Islands between St. Marks and Apalachicola by Assistant Geo. D. Wise. Of Pensacola Harbor by Assistant F. H. Gerrish. Of the Islands near the Santa Barbara Channel, and of the Coast adjacent, by Sub-Assistant W. M. Johnson. The entire results of the labors of these different surveying parties are translated to the Coast Survey Office at Washington in charge of Capt. W. R. Palmer, Topographical Engineer, where they are engrossed in the form of permanent charts for the use of Commerce. The whole operations are under the superintendence of Prof. A. D. Bache.

Affairs at the Charlestown (Mass.) Navy-yard are summed up as follows by the Boston Traveller:

"There is now in Charlestown Navy-yard a beautiful gun-boat, 188 feet long, 31¼ feet wide and 14 deep, which can be brought forward at short notice. She is flat on the floor, has long, sharp ends, and is designed principally for shallow-water service. Like the Hartford, her workmanship is of the best quality, and her model very neat, and apparently finely adapted for any weather.

The sloop-of-war Constellation is now in the dry-dock receiving new wales and other repairs.

The sloop-of-war Lexent is lying in the dock-basin, and is all ready to receive her tanks; in other words, is ready to be fitted for sea, so far as the hull is concerned.

The steam-frigate Colorado lies near the sheers, with only her fore and mizzen masts in. She put in here to have some of her machinery repaired.

The extension of the dry-dock continues. When completed, it will be, perhaps, the best dock in the country.

The foundry buildings are receiving the machinery and other apparatus for actual service. Like the Hartford, her workmanship is of the best quality, and her model very neat, and apparently finely adapted for any weather.

John Morrissey on Exhibition in Philadelphia.—John Morrissey, the bruiser, who had the prize fight with Heenan which made so great a stir, arrived in this city yesterday, and in the evening gave a sparring exhibition at Franklin Hall. About one hundred persons were present; most of them being of the regular rowdy and blackguard stamp, while there were various velvet-fingered and fancifully-dressed gamblers and prominent politicians among the crowd. The audience was of a character to induce a belief in Lavater's physiognomical theories as to character showing itself through the "mugs" of individuals. The exhibition opened with a set-to between two young men, in which they both displayed considerable skill. After an interval, rounds were given by two more youths, in which one named Keenan handled his fives very expertly. Keenan and a young gentleman from California (who probably knows what a Vigilance Committee is) then put on the gloves. The Californian was remarkably quick, both in attack and defence—quicker than any one we have ever seen, but his "bottom" was not equal to his dexterity. Captain E. W. Fowne then came forward, and after stating that on Friday night Mr. Morrissey would put on the gloves with Rankin and Bradley, at another exhibition, he introduced Mr. Morrissey. That illustrious individual then appeared, and was received with applause. He then sparred with a hugely obese individual named Orrigson, who warded off Morrissey's blows with great skill. They had three brief rounds, in which no very hard knocks were given or received, after which the exhibition closed.—Philadelphia Inquirer, Nov. 24.

WOOD'S MINSTRELS,
Nos. 561 and 563 Broadway,
NOVELTY AFTER NOVELTY.
The proprietor of Wood's Minstrels has not added to his always popular programme a feature which is as original as it has been pronounced classic and beautiful, and he thinks he may, without the fear of laying himself open to the charge of vanity, say a few words in regard to it, in order that the public may know this as a privilege, the more especially as he has generally remained silent while others were reaping the benefit of certain features in his peculiar business which originated with, and were carried out by himself, and he is not willing that the public should have any doubt as to who is entitled to the credit of originating the style of entertainment of which this advertisement particularly treats. The business of furnishing
ETHIOPIAN ENTERTAINMENTS
for the public amusement is to-day by no means what it was when Mr. Wood, some seven or eight years since, assumed the business control of a popular band. It has been freed from many objectionable features, and greatly elevated in the scale of POPULAR PASTIMES.
Where in many cases redeemed, if not actual grossness, marred its representation, a tone of delicacy and chastenness now pervades it—where the feelings of the fastidious were sometimes wounded by a broad allusion, a determination is now apparent to avoid anything calculated to offend the most exacting lovers of refinement. If Mr. Wood takes to himself the credit of having done much to bring about this very necessary reform, he assumes no more than what the honestly believes to be his due, and no more than what the public have, by their more than liberal patronage, declared over and over again to be true.
Having said thus much in justice to himself, Mr. Wood begs to offer a few words explanatory of the style of amusement above alluded to.
Some time since, while searching in his mind for something which should be entirely unique in its character, and at the same time perfectly in keeping with Ethiopian entertainments, wherewith to amuse his patrons, the idea occurred to Mr. Wood that a series of would be at once singular and appropriate. He acted upon the idea at once, and although he was forced to expend an almost fabulous sum in order to properly carry out this idea, yet his account showed a balance on the right side in the end, thus proving to his satisfaction, what he had often proved before, that the citizens of New-York would always support an enterprise bearing the stamp of excellence.
One idea invariably begets another of a kindred nature, and the success which attended Mr. Wood's panoramas led him to suppose that a series of TABLEAUX REPRESENTING SOUTHERN SCENERY, would be not only highly entertaining but instructive as well. Accordingly, he at once set about the task, and in a short time succeeded in getting up of the kind alluded to, which are now in course of representation upon his stage, and which have already secured the stamp of unqualified public approval, they having been witnessed, during the few past nights, by thousands of our most discriminating citizens, who have hailed their representation with delight, and have accorded to them such praise as rarely falls to the lot of any
SIX SCENES
WORK OF ART.
The first of these pictures is a
NOON-DAY SCENE ON THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER, and represents a gang of negroes rolling cotton on the levee, while others are scattered about in groups variously engaged. The flat-bottomed, top-heavy-looking steamers peculiar to the Southern and Western rivers, are observed upon the bosom of the Father of Waters, which stretches far, far away in the distance, while an occasional flat-boat, with its hazy-looking crew, is discerned floating down the stream. The effect of this picture is truly beautiful.
The second scene represents
A SOUTHERN TOBACCO PLANTATION IN THE MORNING.
The field hands, with the attendant overseer, are discovered at work with hoe, rake and other implements, apparently contented and jolly enough, while their beetle-browed, sensual-looking task-master, with whip in hand, stands looking moodily upon the scene. This is a truly fine picture, the truthfulness of which will be at once recognized by any one who has traveled through the tobacco-growing regions of the South.
The third picture is a life-like representation of
among the plantation negroes of the South, by moonlight. A group of merry negroes, their happy, upturned sable faces glistening in the moonlight, seem to be in the seventh heaven of enjoyment. Some are dancing, some singing, some playing the bones, while all seem to be giving themselves up to the intensest happiness.
The fourth picture is
AN EVENING CORN-HUSKING SCENE.
A group of happy colored folks are discovered in the pleasant occupation of husking corn. All seem very contented and happy, and prominent among them is a merry fellow who is triumphantly displaying the prize ear.
The fifth picture represents
LITTLE EVA READING THE BIBLE TO UNCLE TOM.
The happy, spiritualic face of the child looks up at the old negro with a pleased, contented expression, while he regards her with a look of gratitude and veneration. This is a picture which must please everybody.
The sixth and last picture is A SCENE AT UNION SQUARE
at sunrise. The equestrian statue of Washington is seen in the foreground, and around it are grouped a number of persons looking up with admiration at the Father of his Country. In the background may be seen the Everett House. In viewing this scene the spectator is supposed to be standing at 4th-av., looking up. This scene is finished by a beautiful display of pyrotechny.
The effect of these pictures as witnessed from the auditorium it would be hard to describe. They seem to be reflected from a mirror, and resemble more than anything else an
with its perfect light and shade and its superb tints.
In adding these pictures to his programme, Mr. Wood has taken nothing from the OTHER FEATURES OF HIS ENTERTAINMENT.
On the contrary, he has added to them, and challenges the world to produce the equals of the various members of his band in their peculiar roles. There is not one of them who does not stand prominent in the business, and Mr. Wood is satisfied that the success of his tableaux was greatly assisted by their hearty cooperation. He also wishes to say a word in praise of his efficient stage manager, Mr. Bleecker, and of the painter of the scenery, Signor Delamano.
Mr. Wood has gone to immense outlay in this last enterprise, but there will be NO ALTERATION MADE IN THE PRICE OF ADMISSION, WHICH WILL REMAIN AT TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.
Doors open at 6½; performance commences at 7½.

The Stock Exchange was somewhat better [illegible] The depression which was so prominently noticed on either side, though it could not exactly say that the Bear account was either increased than either by contract sales, [illegible] the success with which two or three of the Western roads have been with short of late, and the continued adverse reports of the traffic in that direction, the sellers against the future of the market recent every appearance of recovery in Galena and Rock Island, and to-day sold Toledo with some freedom. The two Michigan Stocks are also weak; Michigan Central particularly so. Milwaukee is gradually recovering from the extreme depression of last week. The newer Bonds and their Bonds are fairly supported. Some moderate contracts in New-York Central were put out at 83⅛@¾ ▼ cent., but on the certificates of the Stock for Street delivery have become scarce, without any effort on the part of the Bull account to make them an, as decided success in made in depressing the prices. The October earnings, as before stated, show a gain over the result of the same month last year, and we learn from Albany that the November business thus far compares favorably with last season. In reference to the February dividend, which we find is already canvassed by parties who wish the stock on good, we have the double assurance of its prompt payment at the usual rate of 8 ▼ cent. in the steady policy on this subject of executive management, whose finances are wholly unembarrassed and strong in ready cash, and in the fact that nearly two-thirds of the required net earnings for this object were realized the first three months of the half year. The Panama shares were firm at 121½ ▼ cent. The stock is now within five weeks of another half yearly division at the rate of 12 ▼ cent. Pacific Mail Shares are steady. The Stockholders are generally confident that the few days' delay in the dividend is not to impair the expected 4@15 ▼ cent. The dealings in Reading were less firm than yesterday; the short sellers finding the certificates a little easier on the Street. The Coal tonnage for four days of the fiscal week reaches 27,000 tons. The stock closed 51½@62 ▼ cent. State Stocks were in good request, though a leading operator supplied Missouris freely at 80 ▼ cent., which rate is a fraction lower than yesterday. In Railway Bonds there was no important business. The Erie common Bonds continue in request at the advance of Monday and yesterday; the 75s brought 42½ ▼ cent. At the close the market was somewhat irregular. There were buyers for New-York Central at 83½@¾ ▼ cent., and Rock Island at 62½ ▼ cent. The Central transfers close for the annual election, on the 27th, (Saturday,) to reopen on the 9th December, and the Stock is offered cheaper for the last-named date than for cash.

In Money, the changes are scarcely perceptible. The demand at call is moderate. Discounts rate 4@4½ ▼ cent. for prime short acceptances, and 5@6 ▼ cent. for first-class bills running 90 days to 5@6 months. Lenders are less particular as to time than a week or two ago. Nothing in exchange since the closing of the mail for the Asia, and as no packet goes on Saturday, the market is likely to be dull for three or four business days ahead. The steamer to-day took $204,117 in Bullion. The Sub-Treasury since the beginning of the week has disbursed $473,967 in excess of its receipts. Balance this afternoon $6,989,175.

We hear of less movement of Gold to the South this week, though occasional parcels continue to go forward. The Tehuantepec arrival at New-Orleans from California, advises that the Pacific Mail steamer of Nov. 5 left San Francisco with $2,250,000 in Gold, of which $1,600,000, or $1,800,000, will be due here early next week.

The Cotton export from the South this week reaches the large total to Foreign States of 86,000 bales, equivalent to an exchange of $4,500,000.

The following is a Statement of the Earnings o the New-York Central Railroad, for the month of October, 1858, compared with its Earnings for the corresponding month of the previous year:

1858—Earnings	$407,727 51
1857—Earnings	347,286 23
Increase	$60,441 28

The young State of Minnesota, it is to be apprehended, is making a bad start with her Public Debt and Railway System. The first regular Legislature voted $5,000,000 in State 7 per cents to the latter, in exchange for a first mortgage lien upon the work, to be represented by Mortgage Bonds of a similar tenor to the Public Debt so exchanged. The Companies have since created a much larger first mortgage, proposing and insisting that the State shall come in, in common with other mortgagees, for her proportion of the Railway Bonds. The Governor, denying this construction of the act, refused at first to issue the State Bonds. He contended that the State should be the exclusive first mortgagee; but the Courts, by mandamus, have overruled him; and the Bonds of the State under this compulsory process are soon to be brought upon this market. Other irregularities in their issue have been spoken of, and as, according to the old proverb, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, money lenders had best be assured against the possibility of future legal trouble, before negotiating any other Minnesota State Bonds than those of the small regular issue of $250,000 in 8 per cents issued for strictly State purposes.

The Bullionists at Clinton Hall propose t drive out all Bank-notes below the denomination of $10, by means of the stamp tax. They promise that, in the loan executable from the New-York sources, coming to both after a money crisis of unexampled severity, through which this Currency passed uscathed. The authors of the pamphlet before us two at least, being Bank Directors, know that about eight millions of dollars in Country small notes, on a thousand different Banks, from Buffalo to Montauk, were liquidated, after the crisis, through the City Banks, without the loss of a penny. They know that, in the wildest fury of the financial storm, the security of the Country Bank notes of New-York was never seriously disturbed, if at all, and that the City Bank notes, secured in the same way at Albany, were often solicited, by timid depositors, in preference to gold, as being equally safe, more portable and less liable to robbery.

"Among the measures proposed for securing a more uniform and reliable currency, that of suppressing or prohibiting small notes has frequently occupied public attention. Excessive issues of small notes are fraught with evil, and the natural tendency of the power to issue them is always to run into excess, thus driving coin out of use; and too often the loss on such notes falls most heavily upon that portion of the community least able to bear it. To deprive the laborer of his hire, by means of paper money, liable to sudden depreciation, is a crime. All our Governments—National and State—have been appealed to against these paper issues. Some of the States have prohibited notes under $5, but so far there has been no disposition manifested to make the prohibition general throughout the Union."

As mere platitudes on currency reform in general, these remarks call for no particular notice. But from a New-York source they necessarily mean to impeach the small-note currency of this State. They mean to say that here the public concern is frequently excited for the suppression of small notes; which is not true. They mean to say that here the natural tendency of the issue is always to run into excess; which is not true. They charge that they drive coin out of use; which is the fault of the popular preference, and not of the currency itself. They charge that here the loss on such notes falls most heavily upon that portion of the community least able to bear it; which is not true, since the default of payment is not permitted by our Banking laws to be at any time considerable. It is known to be of very rare occurrence, and cannot fall "heavily" on any portion of the community. They insinuate that the State perpetrates a crime upon labor, by means of paper money liable to sudden depreciation; which is not true. The paper money of this State is the equal of gold in every sense—in the intrinsic security pledged for its prompt redemption, and its uniform value and reliability, trusted by trade and labor at all times, even through the fiercest money panics. They complain that all our Governments, National and State, have been appealed to without effect against these paper issues. No solitary appeal of the sort has been made to the State of New-York, since our present banking laws were perfected, for the sufficient reason that few people in the State are dissatisfied with the system from choice, and none have reason to be on the score of safety. It is finally alleged, and made subject of complaint and demonstration, that, while some of the States have [illegible] notes under five dollars, "no disposition has manifested to make the prohibition general." And, why should there be in the State of New-York, where small notes have become, by long habit and superior convenience, almost a necessity, [illegible] with every local interest, and current [illegible] farm and in all workshops?

But, aside from the specific security for this circulation lodged with the Bank Department of the State, the records of that Department, through the crisis, show the almost universal ability of the Banks themselves to respond to the demands of this almost unexampled emergency. They were able to hold, in reserve, on the eve of the crash, $14,121,018 of their registered circulation, while their securities were left undrawn in the Department. Later in this season of trouble, and after returning $4,941,655 for cancelation, they held in reserve $12,402,303 in their own vaults; the surplus securities remaining undisturbed in the Department. By mutual agreement and to serve a mutual convenience, the further sum of $7,946,000 was held for country account by the City Banks. Every dollar of this, with 6 ▼ cent. interest, was paid; most of it in advance of the terms of arrangement.

The following memoranda, which were kindly furnished a few days since from the Bank Department, will verify what we have just said of the Currency movement through the late crisis. From the same authentic source we learn that about 67 ▼ cent., or two-thirds, of the New-York circulation is below the denomination of Ten Dollars. The conventicle at Clinton Hall, therefore, virtually proposes to drive out something like twenty millions of their own State currency by invoking the stamp tax of the Federal Government.

Reform in Finance and Banking.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

"Every man to his trade," as NAPOLEON the First said to his John, as he gave back "the ribbons," after overturning his vehicle by his own driving.

We are reminded of this anecdote in reading the report of the gentlemen who have recently undertaken to do the subject of Finance and Banking at their soirées in Astor-place.

They tell us Sir Robert Peel's project has failed. Why? Because he failed to engraft, in 1844, their ideas on his bill, providing for the better management of the Bank of England. But Sir Robert Peel did the best he could, in that unenlightened period of the Christian Era, and, considering his imperfect knowledge of Finance, Banking, and the universal laws of trade, did pretty well!

Now, while no man in his senses will pretend that we have as perfect a system of banking as could, by any possibility, be devised, or as we may attain to even in this century, yet we do claim that lawmakers, bankers and other practical men combined, have contrived as good a system for us as exists in the world—quite as unexceptionable a code as the dry-goods dealers, or commercial men, have for the basis of their transactions—one that works practically with less loss to the community than their operations, even if occasionally a bank does fail. This, however, is only by the way, and is thrown in rather as an offset for the Committee's theorizing and fault-finding.

But there are assertions in that report which convey anything but a true statement of facts. We will now only notice one of them, and perhaps take up others more at our leisure:

It says, that:

"Fifteen months ago, the Banks of this City extended their loans to $122,000,000; with the then existing amount of their capital and specie reserve, this aggregate of loans infused into our currency, about $80,000,000 of the credit element in the form of deposits and circulation on a specie basis of $12,000,000, or nearly 7, the credit element, for 1 of coin."

But what are the facts?

Calling the loans as stated		$122,000,000
The capital paid in	$60,000,000
Reserved profits on hand	8,000,000
The specie as stated	12,000,000	give 65,000,000
Leaves		$57,000,000

instead of $80,000,000 as stated in the report, or about 3 of the credit element to 1 of coin, instead of 7 as those gentlemen loosely state it. Figures have an old-fashioned way of telling the truth, if you only give them a fair chance to speak out! And surely the truth is quite as much as either merchant or bankers cares to hear spoken of last year's history.

Weekly Review of the Buffalo Breadstuff Trade.

From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, Nov. 23.

The following is the (official) statement of the amount of Grain in store at the different elevators in this city, Saturday evening, Nov. 18th:

Red Winter Wheat, bush	181,276
White Wheat, bush	116,356
Chicago Spring, bush	26,816
Milwaukee club, bush	27,666
Stump tail	24,724
Corn, bush	115,622
Oats, bush	17,032
Barley, bush	60,429
Rye, bush	4,304
Total bushels	568,765

There are four cargoes of 69,047 bushels afloat in the creek, which would make the total of grain here 617,863 bushels.

FLOUR—The stock in store at this port is very much reduced, the total amount aggregating about 30,000 bbls., a considerable portion of which is held out of market. Prices since Tuesday last have advanced about 25c. ▼ bbl., while the demand has, for the most part, been confined to the better grades. The amount brought forward by lake last week was 40,892 bbls., and the amount shipped hence by canal 21,082 bbls. Besides this amount, a large portion was consigned to the Central Railroad and other parties for through shipment, by reason of which the amount in store has not materially increased. The total amount reported as having been sold in the meantime, foots up 5,700 bbls., closing yesterday at $4 62½@$4 75 for Superfine; $4 25@$4 50 for good to choice brands extra Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Canadian; and $5 75@$6 for double Extra.

WHEAT—With a fair local and interior demand, prices since Tuesday last have advanced 2c.@3c. on some varieties, closing firm. The receipts for the week were 205,540 bushels, being about the same as that during the previous one, both being far below the corresponding week of last year. The amount sent forward by canal was 207,629 bushels, leaving 57,612 bushels in store.

CORN—The New-York market since Tuesday last has, on the whole, ruled very dull, and this feeling has been communicated to our own market, prices in the meantime closing a shade easier, but not quotably lower. The total receipts for the week were 24,101
